OPINION

of the Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs

for the Committee on Industry, Research and Energy

Rapporteur for opinion: Sergey Lagodinsky

(*) Associated committee – Rule 57 of the Rules of Procedure
SHORT JUSTIFICATION

1. Background

The proposed Data Governance Act (DGA) presented in November 2020 follows the Commission’s Communication “A European Strategy for Data” from February of the same year. According to the announcements, the DGA is the first of what is to become a number of legislative proposals to govern access and use of data in the Union.

The DGA combines several instruments. First, it complements the Open Data Directive (EU) 2019/1024 by a regime which allows public sector bodies to make data available for re-use covered by third party rights, including personal data. Second, it establishes rules for data intermediation services, with the purpose of enabling data sharing among businesses with and without remuneration, and encourages the creation of cooperatives that would strengthen the position of both individual data subjects and small non-personal data holders. Finally, it encourages “data altruism” by individuals by creating a standardised consent form for data subjects to make their personal data available for purposes serving the general interest, and by establishing organisations to pool these data and make them attractive for data users. It also creates a structure of competent authorities to enforce its provisions and an expert group to support its goals.

In its impact assessment, the Commission estimates the economic value of the combined measures to amount to 3,87 % to 3,95 % growth of the GDP.

2. The Rapporteur’s Position

In its opinion the rapporteur focuses on a number of improvements, most importantly the following:

A. Emphasising the centrality of GDPR

The rapporteur deems legal clarity and certainty about the DGA’s relationship vis-a-vis the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) a central element of the new regulation, considering that the legislator is bound by Article 8 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union and Article 16 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union. Thus, the LIBE opinion draft proposes one central provision stating the primary role of the GDPR. This clarification will secure the fundamental right of protection of personal data. This solution also follows the joint opinion of the EDPB and the EDPS1.

B. Effective differentiation between personal and non-personal data.

One of the main premises of the data protection law is that the data subjects’ rights are very different from rights exercised by holders of non-personal data. Thus, the rapporteur decided to re-draft the provisions applying to data subjects and data holders respectively to emphasize the differences between the two categories.

This also applies to data intermediation services that must treat the two categories differently.

In case of non-personal data, they can offer pooling and sharing as well as additional treatment of data as a service. Regarding personal data, the providers cannot and should not substitute data subjects who must continue to comprehensively exercise their rights in their own name. As a result, the providers’ function with respect to personal data must be distinctly different and focus on facilitating between data subjects and potential data users. Only then will they be able to remain neutral and not process personal data themselves.

C. No disincentive for public sector bodies to make data available under the Open Data Directive

While the Open Data Directive’s provisions exclude non-personal data protected on grounds of commercial and statistical confidentiality and of intellectual property rights of third parties, as well as personal data, the Data Governance Act applies explicitly to those.

This should not create any disincentive for public sector bodies to publishing Open Data. Where techniques such as anonymisation, aggregation and others can effectively be applied and thus derive data that does fall under the re-use regime mandated by the Open Data Directive, the latter should take precedence.

D. Data altruism must lead to data use in the public interest

Where individuals are incentivised to make their data available voluntarily for the benefit of public interest, their trust should not be abused. Therefore, it is important to clarify that the organisations that make such data available, as well as the potential data users, use the data with the same objective of contributing to the public interest.

Consequently, the rapporteur has opted to change the name of the organisations pooling and sharing altruism data, to “Public Interest Data Hubs”.

(2) Over the last few years, digital technologies have transformed the economy and society, affecting all sectors of activity and daily life. Data is at the centre of this transformation: data-driven innovation promises enormous benefits for citizens, for example through improved personalised medicine, new mobility, and its contribution to the European Green Deal\textsuperscript{23}. In its Data Strategy\textsuperscript{24}, the Commission described the vision of a common European data space, a Single Market for data in which data could be used irrespective of its physical location of storage in the Union in compliance with applicable law. It also called for the free and safe flow of data with third countries, subject to exceptions and restrictions for public security, public order and other legitimate public policy objectives of the European Union, in line with international obligations. In order to turn that vision into reality, it proposes to establish domain-specific common European data spaces, as the concrete arrangements in which data sharing and data pooling can happen. As foreseen in that strategy, such common European data spaces can cover areas such as health, mobility, manufacturing, financial services, energy, or agriculture or thematic areas, such as the European green deal or European data spaces for public administration or skills.

Proposal for a regulation
Recital 3 a (new)

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment
(3a) This Regulation is without prejudice to Regulation (EU) 2016/679\(^1a\) of the European Parliament and of the Council and to Directives 2002/58/EC\(^1b\) and (EU) 2016/680\(^1c\) of the European Parliament and of the Council. This Regulation should in particular not be read as creating a new legal basis for the processing of personal data for any of the regulated activities. In the event of conflict between the provisions of this Regulation and Union law on the protection of personal data, the latter should prevail. It should be possible to consider data protection authorities competent authorities for the purpose of this Regulation. Where other entities act as competent authorities under this Regulation, it should be without prejudice to the supervisory powers of data protection authorities under Regulation (EU) 2016/679.

\(^1c\) Directive (EU) 2016/680 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 27 April 2016 on the protection of natural persons with regard to the processing of personal data by competent authorities for the purposes of the prevention, investigation, detection or prosecution of criminal offences or the execution of criminal penalties, and on the free movement of such data, and repealing Council Framework Decision 2008/977/JHA. (OJ L 119, 4.5.2016, p.89).

Recital 3 b (new)

(3b) In the case of a data set composed of both personal and non-personal data, where these data are inextricably linked, the data set should be considered personal data.

Amendment 5
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 4

Text proposed by the Commission

(4) Action at Union level is necessary in order to address the barriers to a well-functioning data-driven economy and to create a Union-wide governance framework for data access and use, in particular regarding the re-use of certain types of data held by the public sector, the provision of services by data sharing providers to business users and to data subjects, as well as the collection and processing of data made available for altruistic purposes by natural and legal persons.

Amendment

(4) Action at Union level can help to increase awareness and foster trust regarding data sharing, in particular by establishing proper mechanisms for data subjects to know and meaningfully exercise their rights, as well as for data holders to exercise control over data, in order to address different barriers to a well-functioning data-driven economy, and to create a Union-wide governance framework for data access and use, in particular regarding the re-use of certain types of data held by the public sector, the provision of services by data sharing providers to business users and to data subjects, as well as the collection and processing of data made available for altruistic purposes by natural and legal persons.
(5) The idea that data that has been generated at the expense of public budgets should benefit society has been part of Union policy for a long time. Directive (EU) 2019/1024 as well as sector-specific legislation ensure that the public sector makes more of the data it produces easily available for use and re-use. However, certain categories of data (commercially confidential data, data subject to statistical confidentiality, data protected by intellectual property rights of third parties, including trade secrets and personal data) are not accessible on the basis of specific national or Union legislation, such as Regulation (EU) 2016/679 and Directive (EU) 2016/680 in public databases is often not made available, not even for research or innovative activities. Due to the sensitivity of this data, certain technical and legal procedural requirements must be met before they are made available, in order to ensure the respect of rights others have over such data. Such requirements are usually time- and knowledge-intensive to fulfil. This has led to the underutilisation of such data. While some Member States are setting up structures, processes and sometimes legislate to facilitate this type of re-use, this is not the case across the Union.

Recital 6

Text proposed by the Commission

(6) There are techniques enabling privacy-friendly analyses on databases that contain personal data, such as anonymisation, pseudonymisation, differential privacy, generalisation, or suppression and randomisation. Application of these privacy-enhancing technologies, together with comprehensive data protection approaches should ensure the safe re-use of personal data and commercially confidential business data for research, innovation and statistical purposes. In many cases this implies that the data use and re-use in this context can only be done in a secure processing environment set in place and supervised by the public sector. There is experience at Union level with such secure processing environments that are used for research on statistical microdata on the basis of Commission Regulation (EU) 557/2013 (39). In general, insofar as personal data are concerned, the processing of personal data should rely upon one or more of the grounds for processing provided in Article 6 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679.

Amendment

(6) There are techniques enabling analyses on databases that contain personal data, such as anonymisation, pseudonymisation, differential privacy, generalisation, or suppression, and randomisation and other state-of-the-art privacy preserving methods that could contribute to a more privacy-friendly processing of data. Member States should provide support to public sector bodies to make optimal use of such techniques, thus making as much data as possible available for sharing. The application of these technologies, together with comprehensive data protection impact assessments and other safeguards, can contribute to more safety in the use and re-use of certain categories of protected data, for example personal data and commercially confidential business data for research, innovation and statistical purposes. In many cases this implies that the data use and re-use in this context can only be done in a secure processing environment set in place and subject to supervision by the public sector. There is experience at Union level with such secure processing environments that are used for research on statistical microdata on the basis of Commission Regulation (EU) 557/2013 (39). In general, insofar as personal data are concerned, the processing of personal data should rely upon one or more of the grounds for processing provided in Article 6 and 9 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679.

Amendment 8

Proposal for a regulation

Recital 6 a (new)

Text proposed by the Commission

(6a) In order to facilitate the protection of personal data or confidential data, and to speed up the process of making such data available for re-use under this Regulation, Member States should encourage public authorities to apply the principle of ‘open by design and by default’ as referred to in Recital (16) of Directive (EU) 2019/1024 and promote the creation and the procurement of data in formats and structures that allow for swift anonymisation in this regard.

Amendment 9

Proposal for a regulation

Recital 7

Text proposed by the Commission

(7) The categories of data held by public sector bodies which should be subject to re-use under this Regulation fall outside the scope of Directive (EU) 2019/1024 that excludes data which is not accessible due to commercial and statistical confidentiality and data for which third parties have intellectual property rights. Personal data fall outside the scope of Directive (EU) 2019/1024 insofar as the access regime excludes or restricts access to such data for reasons of data protection, privacy and the integrity of the individual, in particular in accordance with data protection rules. The re-use of data, which may contain trade secrets, should take place without prejudice to Directive (EU) 2016/943, which sets the framework for the lawful acquisition, use or disclosure of trade secrets. This Regulation is without prejudice and complementary to more specific obligations on public sector bodies to allow re-use of data laid down in sector-specific Union or national law.

(9) Public sector bodies should comply with competition law when establishing the principles for re-use of data they hold, avoiding as far as possible the conclusion of agreements, which might have as their objective or effect the creation of exclusive rights for the re-use of certain data. Such agreement should be only possible when justified and necessary for the provision of a service of general interest. This may be the case when exclusive use of the data is the only way to maximise the societal benefits of the data in question, for example where there is only one entity (which has specialised in the processing of a specific dataset) capable of delivering the service or the product which allows the public sector body to provide an advanced digital service in the general interest. Such arrangements should, however, be concluded in compliance with public procurement rules and be subject to regular review based on a market analysis in order to ascertain whether such exclusivity continues to be necessary. (11) Conditions for re-use of protected data that apply to public sector bodies competent under national law to allow re-use, and which should be without prejudice to rights or obligations concerning access to such data, should be laid down. Those conditions should be non-discriminatory, proportionate and objectively justified, while not restricting competition. In particular, public sector bodies allowing re-use should have in place the technical means necessary to ensure the protection of rights and interests of third parties. Conditions attached to the re-use of data should be limited to what is necessary to preserve the rights and interests of others in the data and the integrity of the information technology and communication systems of the public sector bodies. Public sector bodies should apply conditions which best serve the interests of the re-user without leading to a disproportionate effort for the public sector. (11) Conditions for re-use of protected data that apply to public sector bodies competent under national law to allow re-use, and which should be without prejudice to rights or obligations concerning access to such data, should be provided in Union or Member State law. Conditions attached to the re-use of data should be limited to what is necessary to preserve the rights and interests of others in the data and the integrity of the information technology and communication systems of the public sector bodies. Public sector bodies should apply conditions which best serve the interests of the re-user without leading to a disproportionate burden for the public sector. Conditions should be designed to ensure effective safeguards with regard to the protection of personal data. Before its transmission, personal data should be fully anonymised, so as to definitively not allow the identification of the data subjects, or data containing commercially confidential information modified in such a way that no respond to the needs of the re-user, on-premise or remote re-use of the data within a secure processing environment could be permitted. Data analyses in such secure processing environments should be supervised by the public sector body, so as to protect the rights and interests of others. In particular, personal data should only be transmitted for re-use to a third party where a legal basis allows such transmission. The public sector body could make the use of such secure processing environment conditional on the signature by the re-user of a confidentiality agreement that prohibits the disclosure of any information that jeopardises the rights and interests of third parties that the re-user may have acquired despite the safeguards put in place. The public sector bodies, where relevant, should facilitate the re-use of data on the basis of consent of data subjects or permissions of legal persons on the re-use of data pertaining to them through adequate technical means. In this respect, the public sector body should support potential re-users in seeking such consent by establishing technical mechanisms that permit transmitting requests for consent from re-users, where practically feasible. No contact information should be given that allows re-users to contact data subjects or companies directly. Confidential information is disclosed. Where any requirements to complete a data protection impact assessment and consult with the supervisory authority pursuant to Articles 35 and 36 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679 have been fulfilled and the risks for the rights and interests of data subjects are minimal, on-premise or remote re-use of the data within a secure processing environment could be permitted. Data analyses in such secure processing environments should be supervised by the public sector body, so as to protect the rights and interests of others. In particular, personal data should only be transmitted for re-use to a third party where a legal basis allows such transmission. In a context of growing availability and sharing of data, even the re-use of non-personal data could have an impact on the protection of personal data, especially where such data are the result of anonymisation, aggregation and other techniques, as an increase in available data can lead to an increase in the chance of re-identification of data subjects, as also pointed out in the joint paper of the Agencia Española de Protección de Datos and the European Data Protection Supervisor entitled ‘10 misunderstandings related to anonymisation’, published on 27 April 2021. In the event of any re-identification of individuals concerned, the re-users should report the incident to the supervisory authority competent under Regulation (EU) 2016/679 and inform the public sector body. The public sector bodies, where relevant, should facilitate the re-use of personal data on the basis of consent of data subjects or, in case of non-personal data, on the basis of permissions of legal persons on the re-use of data pertaining to them, or permissions of data holders to allow the use of their non-personal data, through adequate technical means. In this respect, it should be possible for the public sector body to support potential re-users in seeking such consent or permission by establishing technical mechanisms that permit transmitting requests for consent or permission from re-users, where permitted and practically feasible. No contact information should be given that allows re-users to contact data subjects or companies directly. When transmitting the request to consent to reuse of their data to data subjects that have previously given their consent, or where there is another legal basis for contacting them, the public sector body should ensure that the data subjects are thoroughly informed of their rights, in particular of the right to refuse such a request and not give their consent. The responsibility for demonstrating that valid consent has been obtained should lie with the re-users.

(11a) The de-anonymisation of datasets should be prohibited unless where data subjects have given their consent or another legal basis permits it. This should be without prejudice to the possibility to conduct research into anonymisation techniques, in particular where finding possible weaknesses in existing anonymisation techniques could lead to the overall strengthening of anonymisation, while duly respecting the fundamental right to the protection of personal data.

(14) Companies and data subjects should be able to trust that the re-use of certain categories of protected data, which are held by the public sector, will take place in a manner that respects their rights and interests. Additional safeguards should thus be put in place for situations in which the re-use of such public sector data is taking place on the basis of a processing of the data outside the public sector. Such an additional safeguard could be found in the requirement that public sector bodies should take fully into account the rights and interests of natural and legal persons (in particular the protection of personal data, commercially sensitive data and the protection of intellectual property rights) in case such data is transferred to third countries.

In order to ensure the protection of fundamental rights or interests of data holders, non-personal data which is to be protected from unlawful or unauthorised access under Union or national law, and which is held by public sector bodies, should be transferred only to third-countries where appropriate safeguards for the use of data are provided. Such appropriate safeguards should be considered to exist when in that third-country there are equivalent measures in place which ensure that non-personal data benefits from a level of protection similar to that applicable by means of Union or national law in particular as protection of trade secrets and the protection of intellectual property rights. To that end, the Commission may adopt implementing acts that declare that a third country provides a level of protection that is essentially equivalent to those provided by Union or national law. The assessment of the level of protection afforded in such third-country should, in particular, take into consideration the relevant legislation, both general and sectoral, including concerning public security, defence, national security and criminal law concerning the access to and protection of non-personal data, any access by the public authorities of that third country to the data transferred, the existence and effective functioning of one or more independent supervisory authorities in the third country with responsibility for ensuring and enforcing compliance with the legal regime ensuring access to such data, or the third countries’ international commitments regarding the protection of data the third country concerned has entered into, or other obligations arising from legally binding conventions or instruments as well as from its participation in multilateral or regional systems. The existence of effective legal remedies for data subjects and data holders, public sector bodies or providers of data intermediation services in the third country concerned is of particular importance in the context of the transfer of non-personal data to that third country. Such safeguards should therefore include the availability of enforceable rights and of effective legal remedies.

(19) In order to build trust in re-use mechanisms, it may be necessary to attach stricter conditions for certain types of non-personal data that have been identified as highly sensitive, as regards the transfer to third countries, if such transfer could jeopardise public policy objectives, in line with international commitments. For example, in the health domain, certain datasets held by actors in the public health system, such as public hospitals, could be identified as highly sensitive health data. In order to ensure harmonised practices across the Union, such types of highly sensitive non-personal public data should be defined by Union law, for example in the context of the European Health Data Space or other sectoral legislation. The conditions attached to the transfer of such data to third countries should be laid down in delegated acts. Conditions should be proportionate, non-discriminatory and necessary to protect legitimate public policy objectives identified, such as the protection of public health, public order, safety, the environment, public morals, consumer protection, privacy and personal data.

The conditions should correspond to the risks identified in relation to the sensitivity of such data, including in terms of the risk of the re-identification of individuals. These conditions could include terms applicable for the transfer or technical arrangements, such as the requirement of using a secure processing environment, limitations as regards the re-use of data in third-countries or categories of persons which are entitled to transfer such data to third countries or who can access the data in the third country. In exceptional cases they could also include restrictions on transfer of the data to third countries to protect the public interest.

(20) Public sector bodies should be able to charge fees for the re-use of data but should also be able to decide to make the data available at lower or no cost, for example for certain categories of re-uses such as non-commercial re-use, or re-use by small and medium-sized enterprises, so as to incentivise such re-use in order to stimulate research and innovation and support companies that are an important source of innovation and typically find it more difficult to collect relevant data themselves, in line with State aid rules. Such fees should be reasonable, transparent, published online and non-discriminatory.

(20) Public sector bodies should be able to charge fees for the re-use of data but should also be able to decide to allow re-use at lower or no cost, for example for certain categories of re-uses such as non-commercial re-use, re-use for scientific research purposes, or re-use by small and medium-sized enterprises, so as to incentivise such re-use in order to stimulate research and innovation and support companies that are an important source of innovation and typically find it more difficult to collect relevant data themselves, in line with State aid rules. Proposal for a regulation

Text proposed by the Commission

(21) In order to incentivise the re-use of these categories of data, Member States should establish a single information point to act as the primary interface for re-users that seek to re-use such data held by the public sector bodies. It should have a cross-sector remit, and should complement, if necessary, arrangements at the sectoral level. In addition, Member States should designate, establish or facilitate the establishment of competent bodies to support the activities of public sector bodies allowing re-use of certain categories of protected data. Their tasks may include granting access to data, where mandated in sectoral Union or Member States legislation. Those competent bodies should provide support to public sector bodies with state-of-the-art techniques, including secure data processing environments, which allow data analysis in a manner that preserves the privacy of the information. Such support structure could support the data holders with management of the consent, including consent to certain areas of scientific research when in keeping with recognised ethical standards for scientific research. Data processing should be performed under the responsibility of the public sector body responsible for the register containing the data, who remains a data controller in the sense of Regulation (EU) 2016/679 insofar as personal data are concerned. Member States may have in place one or several competent bodies, which could act in different sectors.

Amendment

(21) In order to incentivise the re-use of these categories of data, Member States should establish a single information point to act as the primary interface for re-users that seek to re-use such data held by the public sector bodies. The Commission should make public in an easily accessible way, and in all official languages of the Union, information about available data resources from all Member States’ single information points. The single information point should have a cross-sector remit, and should complement, if necessary, arrangements at the sectoral level. In addition, Member States should designate, establish or facilitate the establishment of competent bodies to support the activities of public sector bodies allowing re-use of certain categories of protected data. Their tasks may include granting access to data, where mandated in sectoral Union or Member States legislation. Those competent bodies should provide support to public sector bodies with state-of-the-art techniques, including secure data processing environments, which allow data analysis in a manner that preserves the privacy of the information. Such support structure could support the data subjects and data holders with management of consents and permissions, including consent or permission to re-use for certain areas of scientific research when in keeping with recognised ethical standards for scientific research. The competent bodies should not have any supervisory function which is reserved for supervisory authorities under Regulation (EU) 2016/679. Without prejudice to the supervisory powers of data protection authorities, data processing should be performed under the responsibility of the public sector body responsible for the register containing the data, who remains a data controller in the sense of Regulation

Amendment

(22) Providers of data intermediation services (data intermediaries) are expected to play a key role in the data economy, in particular in supporting data intermediaion practises between data holders and data users, based on voluntary agreements or Union or Member State law, as well as the provision of data by data subjects to data users based on consent. They could become a tool to facilitate the aggregation and exchange of substantial amounts of relevant data. Data intermediaries offering services that connect the different actors have the potential to contribute to the efficient pooling of data as well as to the facilitation of bilateral data sharing. Recital 23

Text proposed by the Commission

(23) A specific category of data intermediaries includes providers of data sharing services that offer their services to data subjects in the sense of Regulation (EU) 2016/679. Such providers focus exclusively on personal data and seek to enhance individual agency and the individuals’ control over the data pertaining to them. They would assist individuals in exercising their rights under Regulation (EU) 2016/679, in particular managing their consent to data processing, the right of access to their own data, the right to the rectification of inaccurate personal data, the right of erasure or right ‘to be forgotten’, the right to restrict processing and the data portability right.

(23) A specific category of data intermediaries includes providers of data intermediation services that offer their services to data subjects in the sense of Regulation (EU) 2016/679. Such providers seek to enhance individual agency and in particular the individuals’ control over the data relating to them. They would assist individuals in exercising their rights under Regulation (EU) 2016/679, in particular giving and withdrawing their consent to data processing, the right of access to their own data, the right to the rectification of inaccurate personal data, the right of erasure or right ‘to be forgotten’, the right to restrict processing and the data portability right, which allows data which allows data subjects to move their personal data from one controller to the other. In this context, it is important that their business model ensures that there are no misaligned incentives that encourage individuals to make more data available for processing than what is in the individuals’ own interest. This could include advising individuals on uses of their data they could allow and making due diligence checks on data users before allowing them to contact data subjects, in order to avoid fraudulent practices. In certain situations, it could be desirable to collate actual data within a personal data storage space, or ‘personal data space’ so that processing can happen within that space without personal data being transmitted to third parties in order to maximise the protection of personal data and privacy.

(24) Data cooperatives seek to strengthen the position of individuals in making informed choices before consenting to data use, influencing the terms and conditions of data user organisations attached to data use or potentially solving disputes between members of a group on how data can be used when such data pertain to several data subjects within that group. In this context it is important to acknowledge that the rights under Regulation (EU) 2016/679 can only be exercised by each individual and cannot be conferred or delegated to a data cooperative. Data cooperatives could also provide a useful means for one-person companies, micro, small and medium-sized enterprises that in terms of knowledge of data sharing, are often comparable to individuals.

(24) Data cooperatives seek to achieve a number of objectives, in particular to strengthen the position of individuals in making informed choices before consenting to data use, influencing the terms and conditions of data user organisations attached to data use in a manner that gives better choices to the individual members of the group or potentially finding solutions to conflicting positions of individual members of a group on how data can be used when such data relates to several data subjects within that group. In this context it is important to acknowledge that the rights under Regulation (EU) 2016/679 can only be exercised by each individual and cannot be conferred or delegated to a data cooperative. (25) In order to increase trust in such data sharing services, in particular related to the use of data and the conditions imposed by data holders, it is necessary to create a Union-level regulatory framework, which would set out highly harmonised requirements related to the trustworthy provision of such data sharing services. This will contribute to ensuring that data holders and data users have better control over the access to and use of their data, in accordance with Union law. Both in situations where data sharing occurs in a business-to-business context and where it occurs in a business-to-consumer context, data sharing providers should offer a novel, ‘European’ way of data governance, by providing a separation in the data economy between data provision, intermediation and use. Providers of data sharing services may also make available specific technical infrastructure for the interconnection of data holders and data users.

(26) A key element to bring trust and more control for data holder and data users in data sharing services is the neutrality of data sharing service providers as regards the data exchanged between data holders and data users. It is therefore necessary that data sharing service providers act only as intermediaries in the transactions, and do not use the data exchanged for any other purpose. This will also require structural separation between the data sharing service and any other services provided, so as to avoid issues of conflict of interest. This means that the data sharing service should be provided through a legal entity that is separate from the other activities of that data sharing provider. Data sharing providers that intermediate the exchange of data between individuals as data holders and legal persons should, in addition, bear fiduciary duty towards the individuals, to ensure that they act in the best interest of the data holders.

Providers of data intermediation services that intermediate the exchange of data between individuals as data subjects and legal persons as data users should, in addition, bear fiduciary duty towards the individuals, to ensure that they act in the best interest of the data subjects. Data intermediation services should be able to offer additional specific tools and services to data subjects and data holders to facilitate the exercise of the data subjects’ rights, on the one hand, and the exchange of data, on the other hand. Those tools and services should only be used at the request of, or following the consent of, data subjects, and at the explicit request or with the explicit approval of the data holder. Such tools and services can include analysis, temporary storage, aggregation, curation, conversion, anonymisation, and pseudonymisation. Third-party tools offered in that context should not use data for other purposes.

Alternatively, where a provider of data sharing services not established in the Union offers services within the Union, it should designate a representative. Designation of a representative is necessary, given that such providers of data sharing services handle personal data as well as commercially confidential data, which necessitates the close monitoring of the compliance of such service providers with the conditions laid out in this Regulation. In order to determine whether such a provider of data sharing services is offering services within the Union, it should be ascertained whether it is apparent that the provider of data sharing services is planning to offer services to persons in one or more Member States. The mere accessibility in the Union of the website or of an email address and of other contact details of the provider of data sharing services, or the use of a language generally used in the third country where the provider of data sharing services is established, should be considered insufficient to ascertain such an intention. However, factors such as the use of a language or a currency generally used in one or more Member States with the possibility of ordering services in that other language, or the mentioning of users who are in the Union, may make it apparent that the provider of data sharing services is planning to offer services within the Union. The representative should act on behalf of the provider of data sharing services and it should be possible for competent authorities to contact the representative. The representative should be designated by a written mandate of the provider of data sharing services.

(35) There is a strong potential in the use of data made available voluntarily by data subjects based on their consent or, where it concerns non-personal data, made available by legal persons, for purposes of public interest. Such purposes would include healthcare, combating climate change, improving mobility, improving education, facilitating the establishment of official statistics or improving the provision of public services. Support to scientific research, including for example technological development and demonstration, fundamental research, applied research and privately funded research, can also fulfil purposes of public interest. This Regulation aims at contributing to the emergence of pools of interoperable data made available on the basis of data altruism that have a sufficient size in order to enable data analytics and machine learning, including across borders in the Union.
Legal entities that seek to support purposes of general interest by making available relevant data based on data altruism at scale and meet certain requirements, should be able to register as ‘Data Altruism Organisations recognised in the Union’. This could lead to the establishment of data repositories. As registration in a Member State would be valid across the Union, and this should facilitate cross-border data use within the Union and the emergence of data pools covering several Member States. Data subjects in this respect would consent to specific purposes of data processing, but could also consent to data processing in certain areas of research or parts of research projects as it is often not possible to fully identify the purpose of personal data processing for scientific research purposes at the time of data collection. Legal persons could give permission to the processing of their non-personal data for a range of purposes not defined at the moment of giving the permission. The voluntary compliance of such registered entities with a set of requirements should bring trust that the data made available on altruistic purposes is serving a general interest purpose. Such trust should result in particular from a place of establishment within the Union, as well as from the requirement that registered entities have a not-for-profit character, from transparency requirements and from specific safeguards in place to protect rights and interests of data subjects and companies. Further safeguards should include making it possible to process relevant data within a secure processing environment operated by the registered entity, oversight mechanisms such as ethics councils or boards, including representatives from civil society and relevant affected communities, to ensure that the data controller maintains high standards of scientific ethics and protection of fundamental rights, effective technical means to withdraw or modify consent at any moment, based on the information obligations of data processors under Regulation (EU) 2016/679 as well as means for data subjects to stay informed about the use of data they made available.

Amendment 70

Proposal for a regulation

Article 5 – paragraph 5

Text proposed by the Commission

(5) The public sector bodies shall impose conditions that preserve the integrity of the functioning of the technical systems of the secure processing environment used. The public sector body shall be able to verify any results of processing of data undertaken by the re-user and reserve the right to prohibit the use of results that contain information jeopardising the rights and interests of third parties.

Amendment

(5) In cases where re-use has been allowed in accordance with paragraph 4, points (a) and (b), the public sector bodies shall impose conditions that preserve the integrity of the functioning of the technical systems of the secure processing environment used. The public sector body shall reserve the right to verify the process, the means and any results of processing of data undertaken by the re-user to preserve the integrity of the protection of the data, and shall reserve the right to prohibit the use of results that contain information jeopardising the rights and interests of third parties. In order to use such a secure processing environment, the re-user shall enter into a confidentiality agreement that prohibits the disclosure of any information jeopardising the rights and interests of third parties that the re-user may have acquired despite the safeguards and conditions put in place pursuant to paragraph 4.

Amendment 71

Proposal for a regulation

Article 5 – paragraph 5 a (new)
(5a) Public sector bodies shall apply technical means that prevent the re-users from identifying any data subject as a result of the processing outside the secure processing environment and shall hold the re-users responsible for continuously assessing the risk of identification and de-anonymisation of the results of the processing and for reporting to the public sector body concerned any breaches of the confidentiality, the integrity or the security of the data, in particular where a data breach has resulted in identification of an individual, notwithstanding any reporting obligations under Union law.

Amendment 72

Proposal for a regulation
Article 5 – paragraph 5 b (new)

(5b) Where it can be reasonably assumed, or where an impact assessment indicates that there is a specific risk, that the processing or subsequent combination of data could lead to identification or de-anonymisation, the public sector body shall not allow access to, or re-use of, the data before any requirements of completing a data protection impact assessment and consulting with the supervisory authority pursuant to Articles 35 and 36 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679 have been fulfilled.

Amendment 73

Proposal for a regulation
Article 5 – paragraph 5 c (new)

(5c) Re-use with the purpose of identifying data subjects or otherwise de-anonymising datasets shall be prohibited, unless the data subjects have given their consent.

Amendment 74

Proposal for a regulation

Article 5 – paragraph 5 d (new)

- Text proposed by the Commission

  (5d) The public sector bodies shall publish a list of categories of anonymised data made available for re-use, the methods used for anonymisation and other pre-processing, as well as methods of transmission, covering a period of at least the preceding two calendar years or the shorter period anonymised data was made available for re-use.

- Amendment

  (5d) The public sector bodies shall publish a list of categories of anonymised data made available for re-use, the methods used for anonymisation and other pre-processing, as well as methods of transmission, covering a period of at least the preceding two calendar years or the shorter period anonymised data was made available for re-use.

Amendment 75

Proposal for a regulation

Article 5 – paragraph 6

- Text proposed by the Commission

  (6) Where the re-use of data cannot be granted in accordance with the obligations laid down in paragraphs 3 to 5 and there is no other legal basis for transmitting the data under Regulation (EU) 2016/679, the public sector body shall support re-users in seeking consent of the data subjects and/or permission from the legal entities whose rights and interests may be affected by such re-use, where it is feasible without disproportionate cost for the public sector. In that task they may be assisted by the competent bodies referred to in Article 7 (1).

- Amendment

  (6) Where the re-use of personal data cannot be granted in accordance with the obligations laid down in paragraphs 3 to 5 and there is no other legal basis for transmitting the data under Regulation (EU) 2016/679, the public sector body shall support entities requesting re-use in seeking valid consent of the data subjects, insofar as a legal basis exists for the public sector body to collect their consent, and/or permission from the data holders whose rights and interests may be affected by such re-use, where it is feasible without disproportionate cost for the public sector, and where there is no reason to believe that the combination of non-personal data sets would lead to the identification of data subjects. In that task they may be assisted by the competent bodies referred to in Article 7 (1). Re-use of data shall be conditional on the re-user entering into a confidentiality agreement.

Amendment 76
Proposal for a regulation
Article 5 – paragraph 6 a (new)

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

6a Where public sector bodies make available personal data for re-use pursuant to this Article, the public sector bodies shall support data subjects in exercising their rights, including in relation to any re-users. Article 5 – paragraph 11

Text proposed by the Commission
(11) Where specific Union acts adopted in accordance with a legislative procedure establish that certain non-personal data

Amendment
(11) Where specific Union acts adopted in accordance with a legislative procedure establish that certain non-personal data categories held by public sector bodies shall be deemed to be highly sensitive for the purposes of this Article, the Commission shall be empowered to adopt delegated acts in accordance with Article 28 supplementing this Regulation by laying down special conditions applicable for transfers to third-countries. The conditions for the transfer to third-countries shall be based on the nature of data categories identified in the Union act and on the grounds for deeming them highly sensitive, non-discriminatory and limited to what is necessary to achieve the public policy objectives identified in the Union law act, such as safety and public health, as well as risks of re-identification of anonymized data for data subjects, in accordance with the Union’s international obligations. They may include terms applicable for the transfer or technical arrangements in this regard, limitations as regards the re-use of data in third-countries or categories of persons which are entitled to transfer such data to third countries or, in exceptional cases, restrictions as regards transfers to third-countries.

Amendment 82
Proposal for a regulation
Article 5 – paragraph 13

Text proposed by the Commission

(13) Where the re-user intends to transfer non-personal data to a third country, the public sector body shall inform the data holder about the transfer of data to that third country.

Amendment

(13) Where the re-user intends to transfer non-personal data to a third country, the public sector body shall inform the data holder about the intention to transfer that data to that third country and the purpose for the transfer.

Amendment 83
Proposal for a regulation
Article 6 – paragraph 2

Text proposed by the Commission

(2) Any fees shall be non-discriminatory, proportionate and objectively justified and shall not restrict competition.

Amendment

(2) Any fees pursuant to paragraph 1 shall be non-discriminatory, proportionate and objectively justified and shall not restrict competition, create incentives to lower the protection of sensitive data, or inhibit the re-use of data for purposes in the public interest.

Amendment 84

Proposal for a regulation
Article 6 – paragraph 4

Text proposed by the Commission

(4) Where they apply fees, public sector bodies shall take measures to incentivise the re-use of the categories of data referred to in Article 3 (1) for non-commercial purposes and by small and medium-sized enterprises in line with State aid rules.

Amendment

(4) Where they apply fees, public sector bodies shall take measures to incentivise the re-use of the categories of data referred to in Article 3 (1) by non-profit organisations and for non-commercial purposes such as scientific research, and by small and medium-sized enterprises in line with State aid rules. Where possible, this should allow the re-use at lower or no cost.

Amendment 85

Proposal for a regulation
Article 6 – paragraph 5

Text proposed by the Commission

(5) Fees shall be derived from the costs related to the processing of requests for re-use of the categories of data referred to in Article 3 (1). The methodology for calculating fees shall be published in advance.

Amendment

(5) Fees shall be derived from the costs related to the processing of requests for re-use of the categories of data referred to in Article 3 (1). Any fees shall be limited to covering the costs incurred, such as for the preparation of data to uphold protection on the grounds listed in Article 3(1), for maintaining the secure processing environment and further costs incurred by Article 5(3), incurred in relation to supporting re-users seeking consent and permission as provided in Article 5(6), and incurred by monitoring and enforcement. The criteria and methodology for calculating fees shall be published in advance.

Article 7 – paragraph 1

_text proposed by the Commission_

(1) Member States shall designate one or more competent bodies, which may be sectoral, to support the public sector bodies which grant access to the re-use of the categories of data referred to in Article 3 (1) in the exercise of that task.

_Amendment_

(1) For the tasks mentioned in this Article, Member States shall designate or establish one or more competent bodies, which may be sectoral, to support the public sector bodies which grant access to the re-use of the categories of data referred to in Article 3 (1) in the exercise of that task.

Amendment 87
Proposal for a regulation
Article 7 – paragraph 2 – point b

_text proposed by the Commission_

(b) providing technical support in the application of tested techniques ensuring data processing in a manner that preserves privacy of the information contained in the data for which re-use is allowed, including techniques for pseudonymisation, anonymisation, generalisation, suppression and randomisation of personal data;

_Amendment_

(b) providing technical support for ensuring data processing in a manner that preserves privacy of the information contained in the data for which re-use is allowed;

Amendment 88
Proposal for a regulation
Article 7 – paragraph 2 – point c
(c) assisting the public sector bodies, where relevant, in obtaining consent or permission by re-users for re-use for altruistic and other purposes in line with specific decisions of data holders, including on the jurisdiction or jurisdictions in which the data processing is intended to take place;

Amendment 89

Proposal for a regulation
Article 7 – paragraph 2 – point c a (new)

(c) assisting public sector bodies, where relevant, with formatting data for ensuring a higher level of interoperability with other data available for re-use, according to Union interoperability standards and without prejudice to the data itself or to Union law;

Amendment 90

Proposal for a regulation
Article 8 – paragraph 1

(1) Member States shall ensure that all relevant information concerning the application of Articles 5 and 6 is available through a single information point.

Amendment

(1) Each Member State shall ensure that all relevant information concerning the application of Articles 5 and 6 is available through a single information point. They shall inform the Commission of the single information points.

Amendment 91

Proposal for a regulation
Article 8 – paragraph 2

(2) The single information point shall receive requests for the re-use of the categories of data referred to in Article 3 (1) and shall transmit them to the competent public sector bodies, or the competent bodies referred to in Article 7 (1), where relevant. The single information point shall make available by electronic means a register of available data resources containing relevant information describing the nature of available data.

Amendment 92

Proposal for a regulation
Article 8 – paragraph 2 a (new)

Text proposed by the Commission

(2a) The Commission shall make public in an easily accessible way, and in all official languages of the Union, information about available data resources from all Member States’ single information points.

Amendment 93

Proposal for a regulation
Article 8 – paragraph 3

Text proposed by the Commission

(3) Requests for the re-use of the categories of data referred to in Article 3 (1) shall be granted or refused by the competent public sector bodies or the competent bodies referred to in Article 7 (1) within a reasonable time, and in any case within two months from the date of the request.

Amendment 94

Amendment 104

Proposal for a regulation
Article 10 – paragraph 3

Text proposed by the Commission

(3) A provider of data sharing services that is not established in the Union, but offers the services referred to in Article 9 (1) within the Union, shall appoint a legal representative in one of the Member States in which those services are offered. The provider shall be deemed to be under the jurisdiction of the Member State in which the legal representative is established.

Amendment

(3) A provider of data intermediation services that is not established in the Union, but offers the services referred to in Article 9 (1) within the Union, shall appoint a legal representative in one of the Member States in which those services are offered. The provider shall be deemed to be under the jurisdiction of the Member State in which the legal representative is established. The representative shall be mandated by the provider of data intermediation services to be addressed in addition to or instead of it by, in particular, competent authorities and data subjects and data holders on all issues related to the data intermediation services for the purposes of ensuring compliance with this Regulation. The fact that a given Member State will have jurisdiction over a provider of a data intermediation service on the basis of that provider’s representative being established in that Member State shall not prevent the initiation of legal action against that provider in any other jurisdiction or forum.
(4) Upon notification, the provider of data sharing services may start the activity subject to the conditions laid down in this Chapter.

(5) The notification shall entitle the provider to provide data sharing services in all Member States.

(1d) Where the legal system of the Member State does not provide for administrative fines, this Article may be applied in such a manner that the fine is initiated by the competent authority and imposed by competent national courts, while ensuring that those legal remedies are effective and have an equivalent effect to the administrative fines imposed by competent authorities.

Amendment 218

Proposal for a regulation
Article 32 – paragraph 1

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

By [four years after the date of application of this Regulation], the Commission shall carry out an evaluation of this Regulation, and submit a report on its main findings to the European Parliament and to the Council as well as to the European Economic and Social Committee. Member States shall provide the Commission with the information necessary for the preparation of that report.

By [three years after the date of application of this Regulation], the Commission shall carry out an evaluation of this Regulation, assessing, inter alia:

(a) the conditions for re-use of data under Chapter II in view of their further harmonisation and the potential need for definition of highly sensitive data;
(b) the level of compliance with the requirements set out in this Regulation, as well as the quality and security of services provided by data intermediaries under Chapter III;

(c) the type of altruistic organisations registered under Chapter IV and overview of the objectives of public interests for which data are shared in view of establishing clear criteria in this respect;

(d) the functioning of the European Data Innovation Board;

(e) the conditions for international access under Article 30.

The Commission shall submit a report on its main findings to the European Parliament and to the Council as well as to the European Economic and Social Committee, which report shall be made publicly available. Member States and the EDPB shall provide the Commission with the information necessary for the preparation of that report. The report shall contain a quantitative and qualitative analysis on the impact of this Regulation on the fundamental rights to privacy and on the protection of personal data.
