

WRITTEN QUESTION P-1213/07
by Andrzej Jan Szejna (PSE) to the Council

Subject: Anti-missile shield

Negotiations have begun between Poland and the United States with regard to establishing parts of an anti-missile shield on the territory of Poland and the Czech Republic – i.e. on European Union territory.

Is the Council intending to take a position on this matter? How do the US plans relate to the principles behind the EU's common foreign and security policy? Should this not be a matter for a joint decision of the European Union as a whole?
