

WRITTEN QUESTION P-1472/07
by Philip Bradbourn (PPE-DE)
to the Commission

Subject: Age discrimination

Following a complaint from a constituent regarding the compulsory retirement age of magistrates in the UK at the age of 70 years, could the Commission investigate whether such a compulsory retirement age contravenes any EU age discrimination legislation, and if so could the Commission indicate whether it intends to seek redress from Her Majesty's Government on the matter?