by Luis Herrero-Tejedor (PPE-DE)
to the Commission

Subject: Information and communication policy

According to the 2007 General Report on EU Activities, a total of 1001 officials work in the area of communications policy. How was this figure reached, and what do these officials do?

Are the salaries of these 1001 officials included in the 201.020.070 euros commitment for communication listed in the 2007 General Report?

To whom are these 1001 officials responsible for information and communication policy accountable?
Do impact assessments of the activities they carry out exist?

If so, where are they published? If not, why not?
