Subject: Use of EU funding and environmental protection

The EU is funding investments under Operational Programme 'Infrastructure and Environment'. Sadly, though, some infrastructure projects could have harmful consequences for the natural environment and for people's quality of life. Paradoxically, such investments could be at odds with EU programmes such as Natura 2000 and have a negative impact on Natura 2000 sites, which have been approved by way of Commission decisions.

What appeals and monitoring procedures is the EU planning to put in place for the possibility of contradictory projects financed from the EU budget?
