Subject: Ebola relapse

BBC News announced yesterday that a Scottish nurse who had contracted the Ebola virus over ten months ago but seemed to have made a complete recovery has just suffered a relapse.

1. Is this an isolated case, or does the Commission know of other people who have also experienced a relapse? Whatever the answer, now is not the right time to be dropping our guard in the face of such an unpredictable and disquieting disease.
2. Can the Commissioner for Humanitarian Aid and the EU Ebola Coordinator inform me what measures he plans to take in response to this downturn in the situation?
