Subject: Comprehensive assessment of the impact on EU energy policy of the EU sanctions against Russia

In response to Russia's military action, the EU drew up and adopted various packages and types of sanctions.

In view of the above and of the possible new measures being discussed and prepared, can the Commission urgently carry out a comprehensive assessment of the impact that these measures could have on EU energy policy as a whole, in order to enable Member States to take the best possible measures to protect citizens and European manufacturing during this serious international and energy crisis?
