to the Commission

Rule 138

Geert Bourgeois (ECR)

Subject: Homologation of e-scooters

E-scooters are increasingly common on our streets. Although they are a convenient means of transport, incidents involving these scooters unfortunately occur all too often. The number of accidents has skyrocketed and the severity of the injuries caused is plain to see. Excessive speed and reckless driving are often to blame.

1. Is the Commission carrying out research into the use of e-scooters in the various Member States, applicable regulations and accident statistics?
2. Is the Commission considering a European regulation on the homologation of e-scooters, including speed limits, tyre size and other safety-enhancing measures?
