§ 112

First part Text as a whole excluding the words ‘and technology-neutral policies’

Second part those words

GUE/NGL:

First part ‘Considers that the Energy Union entails negotiating with one voice with third countries;’

Second part ‘calls on the Commission to analyse the appropriateness and potential structure of a voluntary collective purchasing mechanism and its impact on the functioning of the internal gas market, the undertakings affected and its contribution to ensuring security of gas supply; notes that since there are several models of collective purchasing mechanisms, further work needs to be done to determine the best market-based model applicable for EU regions and suppliers concerned and for the conditions under which a voluntary collective purchasing mechanism could be launched; considers that the coordination of positions and the collective purchasing of gas should start at regional level;’

Third part ‘recommends, in the interim, that the Commission and the Energy Community Secretariat support those Member States and Energy Community Contracting Parties, respectively, that wish to negotiate energy contracts on a voluntary basis, in compliance with the EU internal market acquis and with EU competition and World Trade Organisation rules, and provide for protection of commercially sensitive information; underlines that energy contracts must be based upon market prices and competition;’

First part ‘Stresses the need for greater transparency in energy-related agreements, which could be achieved by strengthening the role of the Commission in energy-related negotiations involving one or more Member States and third countries, in particular by making it a requirement for the Commission to participate in all negotiations as an observer in order to strengthen the position of individual Member States vis-à-vis a third-country supplier involved in the negotiations, so as to mitigate the risks of abuse of a dominant position by one supplier; notes, furthermore, that the Commission should carry out ex-ante and ex-post assessments, while fully respecting commercially sensitive information, and draw up both a positive and a negative list of agreement clauses, such as export ban, destination and take-or-pay clauses, the oil indexation of gas pricing or clauses forbidding a third party making energy supplies conditional on being granted preferential access to energy transport infrastructure in the EU;’

Second part ‘points out that, under Article 13(6)(a) of Regulation (EU) No 994/2010, when concluding new intergovernmental agreements with third countries which have an impact on the development of gas infrastructure and gas supplies, Member States are required to inform the Commission, in order to enable it to assess the situation regarding security of supply at EU level;’

Third part ‘calls on the Commission to include strong ex-ante assessment provisions on commercial gas supply contracts in the revision of the Security of Gas Supply Regulation;’

Second part ‘stresses that no fuel or technology contributing to energy security and climate goals should be discriminated against as a matter of principle;’

ECR, S&D:

§ 29

First part ‘Calls on the Commission to facilitate the effective use of all existing EU funding schemes, including the European Fund for Strategic Investments, so as to attract investment for key energy infrastructure projects, research and innovation in energy efficiency, renewables and the development of Europe’s internal capacities with a view to achieve the 2030 climate and energy objectives, based on a cost-benefit approach’

Verts/ALE, EFDD:

§ 133

First part 'Recognises that Europe's energy and efficient technologies, such as cogeneration, would make a fundamental contribution to EU energy security and the achievement of greenhouse gas emission targets; without 'and the achievement of greenhouse gas emission targets'

Second part 'believes, in this respect, that the Energy Union must reflect the right for the Member States to use any safe and sustainable low-carbon energy sources at their disposal' without the words 'low-carbon'

Third part 'low-carbon'

PPE, ECR:

§ 134

First part Text as a whole excluding the words 'recognises, furthermore, that the limited potential of unconventional fuels to help meet the EU's future energy demand, coupled with high investment and exploitation costs and the current low global oil prices, means that it is questionable whether hydraulic fracturing can be a viable technology in the European Union;'

Second part those words

ENF, Verts/ALE, EFDD:

§ 163

First part 'Stresses that, in this regard, all the EU's funding options for boosting safe and sustainable low-carbon energy technologies, energy efficiency, renewables, smart grids, decentralised production, flexible generation, electrical storage and electrification of the transport system must be fully exploited; calls on the Commission to intensify its research efforts on, and roll-out of, such technologies to meet its 2020, 2030 and longer-term objectives, and to improve its energy security and facilitate economic recovery; expects the mid-term review of the Horizon 2020 research programme to reflect these priorities; recalls that the Horizon 2020's Energy Challenge is designed to support the transition to a reliable, sustainable and competitive energy system that has its main priorities listed under the headings Energy Efficiency, Low Carbon Technologies and Smart Cities & Communities;' without the words 'low-carbon' and 'Low Carbon Technologies'

Second part 'low-carbon'

Third part 'Low Carbon Technologies'

Fourth part: 'recalls that at least 85 % of the energy challenge in the budget of Horizon 2020 is to be spent in non-fossil fuels areas, within which at least 15 % of the overall energy challenge budget is to be spent on market up-take activities of renewable and energy efficiency technologies;' without the words 'is to be spent in non-fossil fuels areas, within which at least 15 % of the overall energy challenge budget'

Fifth part those words

ENF, GUE/NGL:

Recital X

First part 'whereas ex-post assessment and verification of all energy-related agreements as regards compliance with EU law is already possible through, inter alia, competition and energy regulations;'

Second part 'whereas insufficient ex-ante compliance checks at national and EU level lead to severe market distortions; whereas the Commission has recognised these shortcomings and has undertaken to strengthen the ex-ante assessment provisions on commercial gas supply contracts;'

Miscellaneous

Amendments 1, 5, 6, 8, 10, 11, 12, 17, 19, 22, 23, 24, 25, 28, 31, 32, 36, 37, 40, 41, 43, 44 had been withdrawn.

First part

‘Acknowledges that renewable energy, increased energy efficiency and a sustainable energy mix leading to energy savings and an internal energy market that allows energy to flow freely are important means for a stable, secure, independent, inclusive, transparent and competitive energy system for the EU, which generates high-quality jobs and wealth within a future-oriented sustainable economy; underlines the fact that a higher degree of electricity interconnectivity, smart grids and new market design are necessary for developing such a system;’ without the words ‘renewable energy’, ‘a sustainable’, ‘leading to energy savings’, ‘sustainable’ and ‘new market design’

Second part

‘renewable energy’, ‘a sustainable’, ‘leading to energy savings’, ‘sustainable’ and ‘new market design’

Third part

‘believes that creating such a system and ending energy islands should be a major political priority of the Energy Union;’ without the words ‘creates such a system and’, ‘major’ and ‘of the Energy Union’

Fourth part:

those words

First part

Text as a whole except ‘help to achieve our climate objectives, including the EU’s aim to be the leader in renewables, and’, ‘coordinated’ and ‘while respecting the EU’s long-term climate and energy goals;’

Second part

‘help to achieve our climate objectives, including the EU’s aim to be the leader in renewables, and’ and ‘while respecting the EU’s long-term climate and energy goals;’

Third part

‘coordinated’

§ 14

First part ‘Stresses that the benefits of raising the interconnection level cannot be accomplished without a high level of coupling of markets and transmission system operators (TSOs);’

Second part ‘calls on the Commission to make all efforts to prevent that coupling is established at Member States grouping level and to promote coupling at EU level that includes all Member States and neighbours, in particular the countries taking part in the European Neighbourhood Policy (ENP);’

§ 18

First part ‘Invites the Commission to report annually to Parliament on the implementation of PCIs and on progress to reach the 10 % target,’

Second part ‘as part of the annual stocktaking foreseen in the Strategic Framework for the Energy Union;’

First part ‘Stresses that the implementation of a ‘one-stop shop’ approach contributes to shortening the permit granting procedures; recalls that the TEN-E Regulation requires each Member State to designate a National Competent Authority responsible for facilitating, shortening and coordinating the permit process at national level;’

Second part ‘welcomes, in this regard, the evaluation of the ‘one-stop-shop’-approach by the Commission to take place in 2017, and encourages the Commission, in this framework, to assess the potential of a single ‘one-stop shop’ at EU level;’

First part ‘Stresses the importance of qualified staffing of national energy regulators, with the required expertise and specialisation and independence;’

Second part ‘calls on the Commission to carry out an independent audit, by the end of 2016 at the latest, on the resources available to, and the degree of independence achieved so far by, all national energy regulators, including the identification of recommendations on how to improve the situation;’

First part ‘Notes that there is still a lack of transparency with regard to the calculation of cross-border capacities made available to the market and the frequency, magnitude and reasons of curtailment on interconnectors; doubts, in this context, that most of the significant curtailments are fully addressed;’

Second part ‘asks the Commission to provide ACER with the adequate competences and powers to gather the necessary information on each individual cross-border transmission capacity so as to allow ACER to fulfil its monitoring responsibilities effectively; requests that such information be supplied to ACER, together with the necessary contextual information about the design and functioning of the national network; welcomes, in this respect, the swift conclusion of the network codes for electricity; notes the Commission’s intentions of expanding the mandate, purview and powers of ACER, and its reflections on what this might entail, as presented in its recent communication ‘Delivering a New Deal for Energy Consumers’; calls on the Commission to come forward with concrete suggestions in this regard, to further the realisation of a true internal energy market; notes that any new responsibilities assigned to ACER should be matched by adequate resources;’

First part ‘Stresses that Central and South-Eastern Europe (CSEE) is endowed with a vast – and largely untapped – potential in terms of renewables;’

Second part ‘notes that cooperation and coordination on long-term planning and building of a regional grid infrastructure in Central and South-Eastern Europe must go beyond the EU in order to include non-EU Western Balkan countries and Turkey; calls for the establishment of a new platform where all key stakeholders in the region could discuss and provide political backing to joint projects designed to fully exploit the region’s electricity potential; recognises that the EU’s Central East South Europe Gas Connectivity High Level Group, established in February 2015, could become such a platform, provided its mandate is expanded to include the electricity domain and the involvement of CSEE’s non-EU countries; acknowledges that the platform would enable the Commission to provide leadership and political support;’ without the words ‘open source software and’

Third part those words

§ 33

First part ‘Recommends that the Commission thoroughly assesses the prospects of new electricity interconnections in the Mediterranean region and between South European and North African markets in view of increasing security of supply’

Second part ‘and developing renewables in both regions’

§ 37

First part Text as a whole excluding the words ‘Stresses the need to derive a future electricity interconnection target on the basis of the EU’s long-term climate goals, and of the sustainable energy system that the EU is looking for;’ and ‘taking into account the EU’s long-term climate and energy goals’

Second part those words

GUE/NGL:

§ 12

First part Text as a whole excluding the words ‘under the third energy package’ and ‘guardian of an unbundled and accessible electricity market and’

Second part ‘under the third energy package’

Third part ‘guardian of an unbundled and accessible electricity market and’

GUE/NGL, ENF:

First part ‘Stresses that the phasing out of regulated energy prices for consumers should take into account the real level of market competition;’

Second part ‘notes, furthermore, that the Energy Union Strategy should insure that consumers have access to affordable, safe and sustainable energy prices;’ without ‘the Energy Union Strategy’

Third part ‘the Energy Union Strategy’

PPE, S&D:

First part

Text as a whole excluding the words ‘and that it has not been established on the basis of scientific evidence’, ‘recalls that the 10 % target was first set in 2002 on the basis of the installed electricity generation capacity that existed at that time; acknowledges that, although the 10 % target is important, it describes neither the quantity of electricity flowing between countries nor the quality, such as regards the availability of the existing interconnection infrastructure or of the existing national infrastructure between the interconnectors;’, ‘believes, therefore, that a single interconnection target based on installed electricity generation capacity is not, on its own, appropriate for all Member States;’ and ‘in the mid-term and certainly’

Second part

‘and that it has not been established on the basis of scientific evidence’

Third part

‘recalls that the 10 % target was first set in 2002 on the basis of the installed electricity generation capacity that existed at that time; acknowledges that, although the 10 % target is important, it describes neither the quantity of electricity flowing between countries nor the quality, such as regards the availability of the existing interconnection infrastructure or of the existing national infrastructure between the interconnectors;’

Fourth part:

‘believes, therefore, that a single interconnection target based on installed electricity generation capacity is not, on its own, appropriate for all Member States;’

Fifth part

‘in the mid-term and certainly’
