§ 26

First part

‘Invites the Commission to develop a system of strict indicators and easily applicable, uniform criteria, based on the requirements set out in the Stockholm Programme, to measure the level of corruption in the Member States and evaluate the Member States’ anti-corruption policies; is concerned about the reliability and quality of the data coming from the Member States; calls on the Commission, therefore, to work closely with the Member States to guarantee the provision of comprehensive, accurate and reliable data, keeping in mind the goal of full implementation of the Single Audit Scheme;’

Second part

‘invites the Commission to develop a corruption index in order to categorise the Member States;’

§ 31

- First part* ‘Urges the Commission to maintain its strict policy on interruption and suspension of payments in accordance with the relevant legal basis;’ ‘
- Second part* ‘welcomes the fact that the Commission has adopted a new decision on the Early Warning Mechanism (EWS); looks forward to the creation of a comprehensive system of early detection and exclusion to be proposed by the Commission; calls on the Commission to better inform the Member States and local authorities about the implementation of its policy;’
- Third part* ‘bearing in mind that this process should not be undermined by political considerations;’

§ 48

- First part* ‘Notes that the definition, classification and detection of, and reporting on, irregularities continue to vary between and within Member States, mainly on account of differing definitions of irregularities; takes the view that further harmonisation is necessary, and welcomes, in this context, the Commission delegated regulation of 8 July 2015 on the reporting of irregularities, which supplements the Common Provisions Regulation; calls on the Commission and the Member States to establish coherent strategies for the treatment of irregularities and for the fight against fraud in cohesion policy; highlights the preventive and corrective measures taken by the Commission to avoid fraudulent irregularities,’
- Second part* ‘including the interruption of 193 payments under cohesion policy;’

PPE:

§ 29

- First part* ‘Underlines the importance of access to information and the transparency of lobbying, and of using EU funding to support the work of independent organisations in this area;’
- Second part* ‘inter alia in order to establish financial support for cross-border investigative journalism;’

§ 8

First part text as a whole without the words ‘and family’

Second part those words

ECR

§ 7

First part ‘Invites the services responsible to continue working on specific measures to promote work life balance;’

Second part ‘regrets that among EP officials women remain in the majority in the assistants’ function group (AST); calls for a yearly analysis of the state of play of gender equality within Parliament, based on gender disaggregated data, at all levels of staff and political bodies, including parliamentary assistants, and for this reporting to be made public;’

§ 5

First part Calls for ongoing development of the gender mainstreaming network, representing committees but also interparliamentary delegations, and its full involvement in regular monitoring of the state of play of gender mainstreaming across policy areas; notes the need for greater and active participation by MEPs in the network’

Second part ‘and calls for substitute MEPs to be added to the network in order to increase participation, as with committees and delegations;’

§ 10

First part ‘Notes that the High Level Group on Gender Equality and Diversity is responsible for adopting an Action Plan for the Promotion of Equality and Diversity in Parliament and ensuring its implementation; calls on the high level group, with the support of the competent services, to submit a comprehensive gender equality roadmap’

Second part ‘indicating how to increase the representation of women in middle and senior management positions to 40 % by 2020;’

Third part ‘invites the Directorate-General for Personnel and the political groups to consider proposing both a woman and a man for Head of Unit positions when posts are vacant;’

First part Text as a whole without the words ‘invites the political groups to consider nominating MEPs from the underrepresented gender in each committee, in a coordinated fashion;’

Second part those words

First part ‘Stresses that gender-responsive budgeting in the form of planning, programming and budgeting that contributes to the advancement of gender equality and the fulfilment of women’s rights is one of the key tools used by policy-makers to tackle the gender gaps;’

Second part ‘deplores that the gender budgeting exercise has revealed that the gender perspective is far from being assumed in all policies, at all levels and at every stage of the policy-making process;’

Third part ‘notes that, in this context, it is particularly crucial to build up in-house capacity on gender-responsive budgeting in order to enhance Parliament’s scrutiny role on these matters;’

Fourth part ‘notes that the implications of spending and revenue decisions have an extremely different impact on women and men and underlines that MEPs on the relevant committees should take these different effects into consideration in the design of budgets; stresses that gender-responsive budgeting promotes accountability and transparency in respect of Parliament’s commitment to gender equality;’

First part ‘Welcomes the specific initiatives taken by several parliamentary committees in this field; regrets that a large majority of the committees have neither adopted nor discussed an action plan on gender equality for their work; stresses how important it is for the competent bodies to work with all committees and delegations in order to share best practices, including through the gender mainstreaming network,’

Second part ‘and to establish a clear procedure, to be incorporated into Parliament’s Rules of Procedure, on the adoption of a gender action plan by each committee and delegation; recommends that each committee hold a hearing on gender mainstreaming in its policy area once every two years, to coincide with the drafting of the gender mainstreaming report;’

First part text as a whole without the word ‘body’

Second part that word

§ 34

First part text as a whole without the words ‘such as the establishment of an interinstitutional high level working group on gender mainstreaming,’
Second part those words

Recital E

First part ‘whereas, in the Strategic engagement for gender equality 2016-2019, the Commission undertook to continue gender mainstreaming actions, including through evaluation and monitoring exercises;’
Second part ‘whereas the Commission has downgraded its strategic engagement for gender equality post 2015 to a staff working document;’

Recital L

First part ‘whereas the majority of parliamentary committees generally give importance to gender mainstreaming (e.g. in their legislative work, in their working relations with the Committee on Women’s Rights and Gender Equality and when drawing up action plans on equality)’
Second part ‘while some committees exhibit little or no interest in this matter;’

Recital P

First part ‘whereas the MFF (multiannual financial framework) is accompanied by a joint declaration by the three institutions, which agreed that “the annual budgetary procedures applied for the MFF 2014-2020 will integrate, as appropriate, gender-responsive elements, taking into account the ways in which the overall financial framework of the Union contributes to increased gender equality (and ensures gender mainstreaming)”’;
Second part ‘whereas, despite this, the actual commitment to continuing gender mainstreaming and empowering women needs to be bolstered, since existing policies have only been implemented to a modest extent and insufficient budgetary resources have been allocated specifically for gender matters;’

Recital T

First part ‘whereas all internal and external EU policies should be designed to benefit boys and girls, and men and women;’
Second part ‘, as well as all other gender identities equally’

Recital Z

First part ‘whereas female representation in key decision-making positions at political and administrative level, including within Parliament’s political groups, remains low;’
Second part ‘whereas women tend to chair the committees which are less connected to resource allocation and economic decision making; whereas in order to improve the quality of decisions made, Parliament needs to ensure that the allocation of decision-making positions is evenly spread between genders; whereas men must commit to promoting gender equality in all areas and at all levels and male MEPs must be encouraged to engage with gender mainstreaming in their work;’

ECR, PPE

First part

Text as a whole without the words ‘reiterates its call on the competent committee to include this practice of GMAs in the Rules of Procedure, taking into account the specific role of the Committee on Women’s Rights and Gender Equality in gender mainstreaming as a horizontal principle; and ‘aimed at bringing a substantial gender dimension into the reports’ and ‘reiterates the need for close coordination between the competent committee and lead committees on GMAs and opinions, to ensure optimal scheduling and planning for effective input into the lead committee report;’

Second part

‘reiterates its call on the competent committee to include this practice of GMAs in the Rules of Procedure, taking into account the specific role of the Committee on Women’s Rights and Gender Equality in gender mainstreaming as a horizontal principle;’

Third part

‘aimed at bringing a substantial gender dimension into the reports’ and ‘reiterates the need for close coordination between the competent committee and lead committees on GMAs and opinions, to ensure optimal scheduling and planning for effective input into the lead committee report;’

§ 18

First part

Text as a whole without the words ‘calls on the Commission to perform systematic gender impact assessments on new legislative or policy proposals, on the basis of its reinforced assessment of their impact on fundamental rights and in order to guarantee that the EU is upholding women’s rights;’ and ‘emphasises that such analyses and the data collection methods used need to be sensitive to the experiences of LGBTIQ persons;’

Second part

‘calls on the Commission to perform systematic gender impact assessments on new legislative or policy proposals, on the basis of its reinforced assessment of their impact on fundamental rights and in order to guarantee that the EU is upholding women’s rights;’

Third part

‘emphasises that such analyses and the data collection methods used need to be sensitive to the experiences of LGBTIQ persons;’

§ 26

First part

‘Expresses its full support for developing targeted and regular gender mainstreaming training, with adequate resources and tailor-made for Parliament specific needs, addressed to all Parliament staff working in policy fields, with more extensive training provided for middle and senior management, specifically Heads of Unit; calls for gender mainstreaming training to be made available for MEPs, parliamentary assistants and political group staff; calls for leadership training to be organised for women, and for women to be offered experience of leadership positions;’

Second part

‘recommends that training sessions include information on the multiple and intersectional forms of discrimination; highlights the need to ensure that all its services are aware of their responsibilities in implementing gender mainstreaming, including those in charge of human resources, security and facilities; suggests the introduction of specific human resources guidelines effectively implementing gender mainstreaming in order to improve the well-being of all staff, including LGBTIQ people, in the workplace; without the words ‘in order to improve the well-being of all staff, including LGBTIQ people’

Third part

‘in order to improve the well-being of all staff, including LGBTIQ people’
