Such measures shall include extended producer responsibility as defined in the third subparagraph in Article 8(1) and incentives for the take-up of re-usable packaging. Member States shall take measures to achieve a sustained reduction in consumption of packaging that is not recyclable and of excessive packaging. Such measures shall not compromise hygiene or food safety. In addition, Member States may take other actions adopted in consultation with economic operators and consumer and environmental organisations and designed to bring together and take advantage of the many initiatives taken within Member States as regards prevention. They shall comply with the objectives of this Directive as defined in Article 1(1).'

Recital D

First part ‘whereas in 2015 the employment rate for women reached an all-time high of 64.5 %, but remained well below that for men, which stood at 75.6 %; whereas, deplorably, women are four times more likely than men to engage in and remain in part-time work, often involuntarily;’

Second part ‘whereas many young people remain poor despite working, especially in Greece, Spain, Croatia, Italy, Cyprus, Portugal and Slovakia;’

Recital AD

First part ‘whereas conditions are worsening for certain groups of women who frequently face an accumulation of multiple difficulties and risks and high levels of discrimination;’

Second part ‘in particular women with disabilities, women with dependants, elderly women, minority and immigrant women, female refugees and asylum seekers, women with little or no training, female victims of gender-based violence, female members of the LGBTBI community, etc.;’

First part ‘Asks the Commission for a greater assessment of and measures to address and take steps to stop the impact of those public spending cuts which are having negative effects on women’s rights and gender equality in the Member States;’ ”

Second part ‘strongly deplores the fact that austerity policies are drastically slowing down progress in achieving gender equality, and are subsequently marginalising women in society and the workplace;’

First part ‘Regrets the absence of gender mainstreaming in the Europe 2020 strategy, and calls for the inclusion of overall and stronger gender mainstreaming therein, addressing the structural causes of female poverty;’

Second part ‘in particular in the framework of formulating the country-specific recommendations in the context of the European semester, and for specific policy guidance on reducing gender inequalities to be included in the annual growth survey;’

First part Text as a whole without the words: ‘in particular among older women, single mothers, women victims of gender-based violence, women with disabilities, migrant women, women refugees and asylum seekers, and women from minorities;’

Second part those words

§ 7

First part Text as a whole without the words: ‘inclusive of transgender and intersex people’

Second part those words

§ 15

First part

‘Calls on the Commission, in close coordination with the Member States, to put forward, an ambitious, comprehensive package of legislative and non-legislative measures regarding work-life balance as part of the Commission Work Programme 2017, taking into account the announced European pillar of social rights,’

Second part

‘and including the revision of existing maternity and parental directives as well as the proposals for directives on paternity leave and carer’s leave, encouraging the equal take-up of leave arrangements by men and women across all categories of workers;’

§ 19

First part

Text as a whole without the words: ‘encourages Portugal, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Finland, Italy, Malta and Estonia to achieve the other target, and calls on Poland, Croatia and Romania, where both targets remain far from being achieved, to step up their efforts in providing formal child care in order to contribute to striking a better balance between the private and professional lives of workers;’

Second part

those words

§ 20

First part

Text as a whole without the words: ‘the Commission and’ and the first instance of the word ‘European’

Second part

‘the Commission and’

Third part

§ 22

First part

Text as a whole without the words: ‘and work of equal value’ and the words ‘and to ask companies to introduce internal mechanisms for the detection of pay gaps’

Second part

‘and work of equal value’

Third part

‘and to ask companies to introduce internal mechanisms for the detection of pay gaps’

§ 23

First part

Text as a whole without the words: ‘considers it urgent to develop an EU-level definition of the principle of equal pay for equal work and work of equal value;’

Second part

‘considers it urgent to develop an EU-level definition of the principle of equal pay for equal work and work of equal value;’

§ 24

First part

‘Condemns the fact that in more than half of the Member States the gender pension gap has increased;’

Second part

‘encourages Cyprus, Germany and the Netherlands to reduce the difference between male and female pensions, which is almost 50 %; calls on Malta, Spain, Belgium, Ireland, Greece, Italy and Austria to close the gender gap in pension coverage, as between 11 % and 36 % of women in those countries have no access to a pension;’

§ 25

First part

‘Congratulates the Government of Sweden on achieving parity in representation in terms of gender, and Slovenia and France on achieving virtual parity, and encourages Hungary, Slovakia and Greece, which have formed governments without any women, to ensure that women are sufficiently represented at all levels of political and economic decision-making;’

Second part

‘calls on the Member States to guarantee gender parity in high-level positions in their governments, public institutions and bodies, and on electoral lists, in order to ensure that there is equal representation in local councils and in regional and national parliaments, as well as in the European Parliament;’

Third part

‘stresses that various studies have shown that appropriate legislative measures could result in rapid changes to the gender balance in the political sphere; shares the Commission’s opinion that, if they are to be effective, quotas should be accompanied by legislation concerning the order of candidate lists and appropriate sanctions in the event of violation;’

§ 31

First part

Text as a whole without the words: ‘calls on the Council to activate the “passerelle clause” by adopting a unanimous decision adding gender-based violence to the areas of crime listed in Article 83(1) TFEU;’

Second part

those words

§ 33

First part

‘Welcomes the progress of the Member States in signing the Istanbul Convention, the first legally binding instrument on preventing and combating violence against women at international level; and urges those 14 Member States that have not yet ratified it to do so without delay; welcomes the Commission’s proposal from March 2016 on the EU’s accession to the Istanbul Convention; calls on the Council and the Commission to speed up negotiations on signing and concluding the Istanbul Convention and supports its accession without reservation and on a broad basis; calls, in addition, on the Commission to include a definition of gender-based violence in line with the provisions of Directive 2012/29/EU and to present as soon as possible, a comprehensive European strategy for preventing and combating gender-based violence;’

Second part

‘which should contain a binding legislative act;’

§ 38

First part

‘Calls on the Commission and the Member States to include measures to protect women and LGBTI people against harassment in the workplace;’

Second part

‘calls on the Commission to revise the current EU Framework Decision on combating certain forms and expressions of racism and xenophobia by means of criminal law, in order to include sexism, bias crime and incitement to hatred on grounds of sexual orientation, gender identity and sex characteristics;’

§ 42

First part

Text as a whole excluding the second instance of the word ‘immediate’ as well as the words ‘and immediate gender identity recognition for the duration of asylum procedures as a violence-prevention measure;’

Second part

second instance of the word ‘immediate’

Third part

‘and immediate gender identity recognition for the duration of asylum procedures as a violence-prevention measure;’

§ 46

First part	‘Reiterates that women must have control over their sexual and reproductive health and rights;’
Second part	‘calls on all the Member States to guarantee ready access for women to voluntary family planning and the full range of reproductive and sexual health services, including contraception’
Third part	‘and abortion;’
Fourth part	‘calls on the Member States and the Commission to undertake public awareness actions with the objective of making men and women fully aware of their rights and responsibilities when it comes to sexual and reproductive matters;’

Recital K

First part

‘whereas the big data sector is growing by 40 % per year, seven times faster than the IT market; whereas the concentration of large datasets produced by new technologies offers crucial information for large corporations, triggering unprecedented shifts in the balance of power between citizens, governments and private actors;’

Second part

‘whereas such concentration of power in the hands of corporations might consolidate monopolies and abusive practices and have a detrimental effect on consumers’ rights and fair market competition;’

Third part

‘whereas the interests of the individual and the protection of fundamental rights should be further scrutinized in the context of big data mergers;’

Recital O

First part

‘whereas data analysis and algorithms increasingly impact on the information made accessible to citizens;’

Second part

‘whereas such techniques, if misused, may endanger fundamental rights to information as well as media freedom and pluralism; whereas the system of public broadcasting in Member States is directly related to the democratic, social and cultural needs of each society and to the need to preserve the plurality of the media, as stated in the Protocol on the system of public broadcasting in the Member States to the Amsterdam Treaty (11997D/PRO/09);’

First part

‘Stresses that individuals’ poor knowledge and understanding about the nature of big data allows personal information to be used in unintended ways;’

Second part

‘notes that education and awareness about fundamental rights is of primary importance in the EU;’

Third part

‘urges the EU institutions and Member States to invest in digital literacy and awareness-raising about digital rights, privacy and data protection among citizens, including children; underlines that such education should address the understanding of the principles/logic of how algorithms and automated decision-making processes work and how to meaningfully interpret them; stresses, moreover, the need to educate with a view to fostering understanding on where and how data streams are collected (i.e. web scraping, combining streaming data with data from social networks and connected devices and aggregating that information into a new data stream);’

§ 16

First part

‘Takes the view that the use of end-to-end encryption should also be encouraged’

Second part

‘and, where necessary, mandated’

Third part

‘in accordance with the principle of data protection by design; recommends that any future legislative framework to this end specifically prohibits encryption providers, communications service providers and all other organisations (at all levels of the supply chain) from allowing or facilitating ‘backdoors’;’

§ 31

First part

‘Warns that, owing to the intrusiveness of the decisions and measures taken by law enforcement authorities – including by means of data processing and data analytics – into the lives and rights of citizens, maximum caution is required in order to prevent unlawful discrimination and the targeting of certain individuals or groups of people defined by reference to race, colour, ethnic or social origin, genetic features, language, religion or belief, political or any other opinion, property, birth, disability, age, gender, gender expression or identity, sexual orientation, residence status, health or membership of a national minority’

Second part

‘which is often the subject of ethnic profiling or more intense law enforcement policing, as well as individuals who happen to be defined by particular characteristics;’

Third part

‘calls for proper training for the frontline collectors of data and users of intelligence derived from the data analysis;’
