recital BD

First part

‘whereas several other competent authorities around the world, including those of the US, Canada, New Zealand, Australia and Japan, have subsequently finalised new assessments of glyphosate and concluded that it is not carcinogenic;’

Second part

‘whereas glyphosate is still under review by the US Environmental Protection Agency, whose draft ecological risk assessment clearly states that there is potential for effects on birds, mammals, and terrestrial and aquatic plants;’

recital BY

First part	Text as a whole excluding the word: ‘high’
Second part	this word
recital CC
First part	‘whereas concern has been raised with regard to the zonal system, and in particular the delays in the procedure and the frequent full or partial re-evaluations of applications in the context of mutual recognition, arising from the differing national requirements of evaluation models of Member States in the same zone;’
Second part	‘whereas the aim of the procedure of mutual recognition by Member States was to simplify procedures and increase trust among the Member States; whereas the application of the mutual recognition procedure is regarded as an important tool to increase work sharing and ensure compliance with deadlines while guaranteeing optimum protection, and is important for the functioning of the internal market;’
§ 75
First part	Text as a whole excluding the words: ‘to assessing whether it would be justified’
Second part	those words
PPE:
§ 43
First part	‘Stresses that scientific peer-reviewed open literature, where available,
Second part	‘should be given the equivalent weight in the assessment as GLP-based studies; considers that they are both valid as contributions to the assessment and’
Third part	‘should be weighted according to the relative quality of the studies and their relevance to the application under consideration;’
Recital AY
First part	‘whereas the credibility of the Union authorisation system for plant protection products strongly depends on public trust in EFSA, which provides the scientific opinions that are the basis for decisions with regard to food safety in Europe;’
Second part	‘whereas the decreasing public trust in EFSA is a concern;’
recital CH
First part	‘whereas recent reports have highlighted significant declines in biodiversity with regard to birds and insects, in particular bees and other pollinators; whereas, in the last 27 years, a decline of over 75 % in total flying insect biomass in protected areas has been observed’
Second part	‘whereas agricultural intensification (e.g. pesticide usage, year-round tillage, increased use of fertilisers and frequency of agronomic measures), which was not incorporated in that analysis, may form a plausible cause; whereas agricultural intensification has been associated with an overall decline in biodiversity in plants, insects, birds and other species;’
Third part	‘whereas biodiversity and robust ecosystems are of fundamental importance, particularly bees and other pollinating insects, to ensure a healthy and sustainable agricultural sector;’
amendment 1
First part	Text as a whole excluding the word: ‘dwellings’
Second part	those words
amendment 45

First part ‘whereas risks are identified by EFSA in its conclusions on active substances, but the Commission often leaves risk mitigation measures to the Member States, which have expertise relevant to country-specific needs, notwithstanding the possibility granted to it under the Regulation to impose them at EU level; whereas this approach was condemned by the European Ombudsman in her decision in case 12/2013/MDC;’

Second part ‘whereas the Ombudsman declared that her understanding is that the exact definition of mitigation measures should be left to national authorities, in an acknowledgement that this is the most appropriate level for ensuring that such measures are adapted to specific land, soil and climate conditions and local agricultural practices;’

amendment 92

First part ‘Calls on the Commission, in accordance with its resolution of 15 February 2017 on low-risk pesticides of biological origin and its resolution of 13 September 2018 on the implementation of the Regulation, to submit a specific legislative proposal to amend the Regulation outside of the ongoing REFIT procedure, with a view to enabling a rigorous high-quality evaluation, authorisation and registration process;’

Second part ‘stresses that plant protection products of biological origin should be subject to the same rigorous evaluations as other substances;’

Recital F:

First part

‘whereas women and girls in the EU experience structural gender inequality in a variety of forms and in a range of settings – including gender discrimination, sexual harassment, gender-based violence and misogynistic hate speech – which severely limits their ability to enjoy their rights and participate on an equal footing in society; whereas in 2017, the #MeToo movement raised awareness of the scale and intensity of the sexual harassment and sexual and gender-based violence that women face; whereas the #MeToo movement resulted in some positive momentum for gender equality, but cases of sexual harassment and sexual and gender-based violence are still widespread; whereas in recent years reports have pointed out a growing backlash against women’s rights and gender equality in the EU;’

Second part

‘whereas women in the Union are not equal before the right to abortion owing to differing policies and legislation across Member States;’

§ 7

First part

‘Points out that improving the quality, independence and efficiency of national justice systems, in particular with regard to judges, prosecutors and lawyers, remains a key priority of the European Union;’

Second part

‘stresses that there is an urgent need to introduce a gender-sensitive perspective into the Member States’ legal and judicial systems, including the development and institutionalisation of the gender component through training programmes for all judiciary staff;’
