Fiona Dow, Head of Unit of the Hungarian Linguistic Unit, Acting Head of Unit of the Estonian Linguistic Unit, European Parliament

Fiona Dow studied German and European History at the University of Edinburgh and obtained a doctorate in Social Science from SSEES, University College London. She completed her training as a conference interpreter at Copenhagen Business School and began her career as an ACI in 1991, joining the staff of the English booth in 1994.

She was appointed Head of the Hungarian Linguistic Unit on 1st January 2009 and has been Acting Head of the Estonian Linguistic Unit as of September 2011.