DRAFT OPINION

of the Committee on Legal Affairs for the Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs on the proposal for a Council regulation on jurisdiction, applicable law, recognition and enforcement of decisions and cooperation in matters relating to maintenance obligations

SHORT JUSTIFICATION

The draftsman's chief concern in preparing these amendments to the proposal for a regulation has been to ensure that decisions relating to maintenance obligations, in the broadest sense of the expression, in cross-border cases are recognised and enforced across the Union in the quickest and most effective way at the lowest possible cost.

The solutions she proposes are pragmatic and intended to be acceptable to the broadest range of Member States. They may offend purists, but in her view the interests of litigants in having a speedy resolution of a problem which causes real hardship, also and in particular to children, must outweigh all other considerations, having due regard to the needs of maintenance debtors and the rights of the defence.

This opinion is also intended to prompt the Council into action and to give heart to the Commission. The problem which the Regulation sets out to tackle is a very real one for citizens in the Union. With the achievement of the internal market, cross-border movements of persons have increased considerably – and with them the problems which are liable to beset the partners of migrants particularly in the new Member States, whose citizens are taking the fullest possible advantage of free movement. Moreover, account must be taken of the fact that divorce and separation is on the increase all over the Union.

The Union should take responsibility for ensuring that its citizens have an effective right to have maintenance obligations enforced when the freedom of movement enshrined in the Treaty is exercised and Member States have every interest in ensuring that partners and children do not have to fall back on social security benefits.

While suggesting improvements to the provisions of the proposed regulation, the rapporteur takes the opportunity of calling on the Member States to consider novel forms of enforcement of maintenance decisions which have been found to be highly effective in non-EU jurisdictions.

AMENDMENTS

The Committee on Legal Affairs calls on the Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs, as the committee responsible, to incorporate the following amendments in its report:

Text proposed by the Commission¹

Amendments by Parliament

Amendment 1 Citation 1

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular

Article 61 c) and Article 67 (2) thereof,

Article 61(c) thereof,

Justification

When consulted by the Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs on the legal basis for the proposed regulation, the Legal Affairs Committee considered that the proposal ought to be dealt with under the codecision procedure.

Amendment 3

Citation 4 a (new)

Acting in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 251 of the Treaty,

Justification

See the justification to the amendment to Citation 1.

Amendment 4

Recital 9

(9) The scope of the Regulation should cover all maintenance obligations arising from family relationships or from relations which have comparable effects, in order to guarantee an equal treatment of maintenance creditors.

(9) The scope of the Regulation should cover all maintenance obligations arising from a family relationship, parentage, marriage or affinity or from relations, including relationships between couples of the same sex, which have comparable effects, such as civil partnerships, in order to guarantee equal treatment of maintenance creditors. Such obligations should be construed in the widest possible sense as covering, in particular, all orders relating to periodical payments, payments of lump sums, transfer of ownership in property and property adjustment, fixed on the basis of the parties' respective needs and resources and being in the nature of maintenance.

Justification

It is necessary to provide some guidance as to the meaning and scope of the expression "maintenance obligations". It is important to specify that civil partnerships and partnerships between couples of the same sex are also covered.

Amendment 5
Recital 10

(10) The rules on jurisdiction differ somewhat from those which are currently applicable, such as they result from Regulation (EC) n° 44/2001. In order to ensure as much as possible the protection of the interests of maintenance creditors and to encourage a proper administration of justice within the European Union, these rules should be clarified and cover now all the cases in which there is a sufficient link between the parties and a Member State. The fact that the defendant is habitually resident in a non-member State of the European Union should no longer be a reason for non-application of Community rules and for reference to national law.

(10) The rules on jurisdiction differ somewhat from those which are currently applicable, such as they result from Regulation (EC) No 44/2001. In order to ensure as much as possible the protection of the interests of maintenance creditors and to encourage a proper administration of justice within the European Union, these rules should be clarified and cover now all the cases in which there is a sufficient link between the parties and a Member State.

Justification

In view of the negotiation of the Convention on the international recovery of child support and other forms of family maintenance in the Hague Conference, to which the European Community acceded on 3 April 2007, this sentence is better omitted.

Amendment 6
Recital 11

(11) The parties should be able to agree on the competent court, except for maintenance obligations in respect of a minor child, in order to protect the "weaker party".

(11) The parties should be able to agree on the competent court, except for maintenance obligations in respect of a minor child in order to protect the "weaker party". The court seised must be satisfied that any prorogation of jurisdiction has been freely agreed after obtaining independent legal advice and that it takes account of the situation of the parties at the time of the proceedings. All choice-of-court agreements should be in writing.

Justification

It is important that the court seised should satisfy itself that any choice-of-court agreement has been freely agreed after obtaining legal advice and is still relevant having regard to the situation of the parties at the time when the proceedings take place.

Amendment 7

Recital 14

(14) The law of the country of the habitual residence of the maintenance creditor should remain predominant, as in the existing international instruments, but the law of the forum should come in second rank, because it often allows, in this specific area, to resolve disputes in a simpler, faster and less expensive manner.

(14) The law of the country of the habitual residence of the maintenance creditor should be dominant, as in the existing international instruments, although the law of the forum may be applied, even where it is not the law of the creditor's habitual residence, where it allows disputes in this area to be equitably resolved in a simpler, faster and less expensive manner and there is no evidence of forum shopping.

Justification

The Regulation's aim of enabling maintenance creditors easily to obtain a decision which will be automatically enforceable in another Member State would be frustrated if a solution were to be adopted which obliged courts to apply foreign law where the dispute could be resolved simpler, faster and more economically by applying the law of the forum. Application of foreign law tends to prolong proceedings and lead to additional costs being incurred in procedures which often involve an element of urgency and in which litigants do not necessarily have deep pockets. Moreover, in some cases application of the law of the creditor's country of habitual residence could give rise to an undesirable result, as in the case where the creditor seeks a maintenance order in the country of which she is a national having sought refuge there after leaving the country in which she had been habitually resident with her husband who is of the same nationality, who is still resident there.

On these grounds, this amendment provides for the discretionary application of the law of the forum, whilst safeguarding against forum shopping.

Amendment 8

Recital 15

(15) Where none of the laws referred to

(15) Where the law of the country of the above enables the creditor to obtain maintenance from the debtor, it should remain possible to apply the law of another country with which the maintenance obligation is closely linked. It can be, in particular, but exclusively the country of the common nationality of the parties.

maintenance creditor's habitual residence or the law of the court seised does not enable the maintenance creditor to obtain maintenance from the debtor or where it would be inequitable or inappropriate to apply that law, it should remain possible to apply the law of another country with which the maintenance obligation is closely connected, in particular, but not exclusively, that of the country of the parties' common nationality.

Justification

This amendment allows for the application of a law other than that of the country of the maintenance creditor's habitual residence or that of the court seised, also in order to avoid forum shopping.

Amendment 9 Recital 16

(16) Parties should be authorized, under certain conditions, to choose applicable law. They should be able to choose the law of the forum for the purposes of particular proceedings. Moreover, they should be entitled to agree on the applicable law prior to any dispute, but only when maintenance obligations involved are other than those in respect of children or vulnerable adults; furthermore, any such choice should be limited to the designation of certain laws only.

(16) Parties should be allowed, under certain conditions, to choose the applicable law. They should be able to choose the law of the forum for the purposes of particular proceedings. Moreover, they should be entitled to agree on the applicable law prior to any dispute, but only when the maintenance obligations involved are other than those in respect of children or vulnerable adults; furthermore, any such choice should be limited to the designation of certain laws only. The court seised must be satisfied that any choice of law has been agreed after obtaining independent legal advice. All choice-of-law agreements should be in writing.

Amendment 10 Recital 17

(17) The debtor should be protected from the application of the law designated where the family relationship on which the maintenance obligation is based is not universally considered as being worthy to be honoured. It should be the case, in particular, for relations between persons related collaterally or by affinity, descendants' maintenance obligations with regard to their ascendants, or maintenance after the dissolution of marriage.

deleted

Justification

This recital is unclear and seems to conflict with the principle of mutual recognition and to be discriminatory. Moreover, the fact that the draftsman's amendment to Article 20 preserves the public-policy safeguard would seem to make such a recital unnecessary.

Amendment 11
Recital 19

(19) Once a maintenance decision has been given in a Member State, it should be enforced quickly and effectively in any other Member State. The maintenance creditors should benefit, in particular, from direct deductions from wages and bank accounts of the debtors.

(19) The aim of this Regulation is to introduce procedures which produce results and are accessible, prompt, efficient, cost-effective, responsive and fair. Once a maintenance decision has been given in a Member State, it should be enforced quickly and effectively in any other Member State. Maintenance creditors should benefit, in particular, from direct deductions from wages and bank accounts of the debtors. Novel and effective means of enforcement of maintenance decisions should be encouraged.

Justification

In common with the draft Hague Convention, the Regulation should pursue the objective of promoting accessible, prompt, efficient, cost-effective, responsive and fair procedures.

Enforcement of maintenance decisions is problematic in many jurisdictions. Member States should therefore actively consider novel means of enforcement that have been used to great effect in non-EU jurisdictions, such as confiscation of driving licences.

Amendment 12
Recital 22

(22) This Regulation respects the fundamental rights and observes the principles recognised in particular by the

(22) This Regulation respects the fundamental rights and observes the principles recognised in particular by the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union. Specifically, it seeks to ensure full respect for private and family life, personal data protection, the rights of the child and the guarantees of effective remedy before an independent and impartial court, in accordance with Articles 7, 8 24 and 47 of the Charter.

Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union. Specifically, it seeks to ensure full respect for private and family life, personal data protection, the rights of the child and the guarantees of effective remedy before an independent and impartial court, in accordance with Articles 7, 8, 24 and 47 of the Charter. In applying this Regulation, regard should be had to Articles 3 and 27 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child of 20 November 1989, which provide that

- in all actions concerning children the best interests of the child shall be a primary consideration,

- every child has the right to a standard of living adequate for the child's physical, mental, spiritual, moral and social development,

- the parent(s) or others responsible for the child have the primary responsibility to secure, within their abilities and financial capacities, the conditions of living necessary for the child's development, and

- States should take all appropriate measures, including the conclusion of international agreements, to secure the recovery of maintenance for the child from the parent(s) or other responsible persons, in particular where such persons live in a State different from that of the child.

Justification

Regard should be had to the rights of children as set forth in the relevant UN Convention.

Amendment 13

Recital 23

(23) In accordance with Article 2 of Council Decision 1999/468/EC of 28 June 1999 laying down the procedures for the exercise of implementing powers conferred on the Commission¹, measures for the implementation of this Regulation should be adopted by use of the advisory procedure provided for in Article 3 of that Decision.

Commission¹.

Justification

The comitology provisions have been adjusted to take account of the amendment of the 1999 Comitology Decision. See also the amendments to Articles 50 and 51.

Amendment 14

Recital 24

(24) This Regulation should replace the Community instruments adopted previously and covering the same field. It shall prevail, in addition, over other applicable international instruments applicable between the Member States in the same matters, in order to unify and simplify the legal rules in force.

(24) This Regulation should replace the Community instruments adopted previously and covering the same field. It should prevail, in addition, over other applicable international instruments applicable between the Member States in the same matters, in order to unify and simplify the legal rules in force. It should be compatible with the Hague Convention on the international recovery of child support and other forms of family maintenance.

Justification

It is important to make it clear that the Regulation is intended to be compatible with the forthcoming Hague Convention.

Amendment 15

Article 1, paragraph 1

1. This Regulation shall apply to maintenance obligations arising from family relationships or relationships deemed by the law applicable to such relationships as having comparable effects.

1. This Regulation shall apply to maintenance obligations arising from a family relationship, parentage, marriage or affinity or from relationships deemed by the law applicable to such relationships as having comparable effects, such as civil partnerships.

Justification

See the justification to the amendment for Recital 9.

Amendment 16

Article 2, point (8)

(8) the term ‘creditor’ shall mean any natural person to whom maintenance is owed or is alleged to be owed,

(8) the term ‘creditor’ shall mean any natural person to whom maintenance is owed or is alleged to be owed or a public body which has assumed the position of the creditor for the purpose of enforcement,

Amendment 17

Article 2, point (9)

(9) the term ‘debtor’ shall mean any natural person who owes or who is alleged to owe maintenance.

(9) the term ‘debtor’ shall mean any natural person who owes or who is alleged to owe maintenance or a public body which has taken over the obligation of the debtor to maintain the creditor,

Amendment 18

Article 2, point (9 a) (new)

(9a) the term ‘proceedings concerning the status of a person’ shall mean any proceedings relating to divorce, legal separation, marriage annulment or affiliation.

Justification

It is necessary to specify what is meant by the expression “proceedings concerning the status of a person”. The definition coincides with the definition of jurisdiction contained in Regulation No 2201/2003, but is expanded to include affiliation proceedings.

Amendment 19

Article 3, point (c)

c) the court which has jurisdiction to entertain proceedings concerning the status of a person if the matter relating to maintenance is ancillary to those proceedings, unless that jurisdiction is based solely on the nationality of one of the parties;

c) the court which has jurisdiction to entertain proceedings concerning the status of a person if the matter relating to maintenance is ancillary to those proceedings;

Justification

This limitation does not seem to serve any useful purpose.

Amendment 20
Article 3, point (d)

d) the court which has jurisdiction to entertain proceedings concerning parental responsibility, under the Regulation (EC) n° 2201/2003, if the matter relating to maintenance is ancillary to those proceedings.

d) the court which has jurisdiction to entertain proceedings concerning parental responsibility, under Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003, if the matter relating to maintenance is ancillary to those proceedings and parental-responsibility proceedings are already pending before that court or are brought before that court at the same time as an application for maintenance.

Justification

This clarification seems worthwhile.

Amendment 21
Article 4, paragraph 2

2. An agreement conferring jurisdiction shall be in writing. Any communication by electronic means which provides a durable record of the agreement shall be equivalent to 'writing'.

2. An agreement conferring jurisdiction shall be in writing.

Justification

This provision is excessively vague: it could cover, say, an exchange of e-mails.

Amendment 22
Article 4, paragraph 2 a (new)

2a. The court seised must be satisfied that any prorogation of jurisdiction has been freely agreed after obtaining independent legal advice and that it takes account of the situation of the parties at the time of the proceedings.

Justification

See the justification of the amendment to Recital 11.

Amendment 23
Article 6, point (b)

b) in the case of maintenance obligations between spouses or ex-spouses, the courts of the Member State of was the last common habitual residence of the spouses provided such habitual residence had still existed at least one year before the institution of the proceedings.

b) in the case of maintenance obligations between spouses or ex-spouses, the courts of the Member State in whose territory the last common habitual residence of the spouses was situated, provided that such habitual residence still existed at least one year before the institution of the proceedings.

Justification

Affects the English version only.

Amendment 24
Article 10, paragraph 1 a (new)

Where maintenance proceedings have been brought by way of application for interim relief, Articles 7 and 8 shall not operate so as to cause the law applicable to the application for interim relief necessarily to apply to any subsequent application for maintenance or variation of maintenance brought in connection with substantive proceedings for divorce, annulment of marriage/civil partnership or legal separation.

Justification

In the absence of such a provision, it could be held that where a woman applied for maintenance by way of interim measures in country A, where she sought refuge, the law of country A ought to be applied to all questions relating to maintenance obligations arising under divorce proceedings subsequently brought in country B, her country of origin where she resides with her spouse.

Amendment 25
Article 13

1. The maintenance obligations shall be governed by the law of the country in whose

1. Maintenance obligations shall be governed by the law of the country in whose territory the creditor is habitually resident.

2. The law of the forum shall apply:

a) if the creditor is unable, by virtue of the law designated in accordance with paragraph 1, to obtain maintenance from the debtor, or

b) where the creditor so requests and this law is the law of the country on whose territory the debtor is habitually resident.

3. The laws designated in accordance with the previous paragraphs shall be disregarded when, by virtue of those laws, the creditor is unable to obtain maintenance, and if it appears from the circumstances as a whole that the maintenance obligation has a close connection with another country, in particular the country of the common nationality of the creditor and the debtor; in such a case, the law of the country with which the maintenance obligation has a close connection shall apply.

territory the creditor is habitually resident.

2. The law of the forum shall apply:

(a) where it is the law of the country of the creditor's habitual residence, or

(b) where the creditor is unable to obtain maintenance from the debtor by virtue of the law of the country of the creditor's habitual residence, or

(c) unless the creditor requests otherwise and the court is satisfied that he or she has obtained independent legal advice on the question, where it is the law of the country of the debtor's habitual residence.

3. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, the law of the forum may be applied, even where it is not the law of the country of the creditor's habitual residence, where it allows maintenance disputes to be equitably resolved in a simpler, faster and less expensive manner and there is no evidence of forum shopping.

4. Alternatively, where the law of the country of the creditor's habitual residence or the law of the forum does not enable the creditor to obtain maintenance from the debtor or where it would be inequitable or inappropriate to apply that law, the maintenance obligations shall be governed by the law of another country with which the maintenance obligation is closely connected, in particular, but not exclusively, that of the country of the common nationality of the creditor and the debtor.

Justification

See the justifications to the amendments to Recitals 14 and 15.

Amendment 26
Article 14, paragraph 1a (new) provided that the court seised is satisfied that any choice of court or choice of law has been freely agreed after obtaining independent legal advice.

Amendment 27
Article 15

Article 15

deleted

Non-application of the designated law at the request of the debtor

1. In the case of maintenance obligations other than those in respect of children and vulnerable adults and between spouses or ex-spouses, the debtor may oppose a claim by the creditor on the ground that there is no such obligation under the law of their common nationality or, in the absence of a common nationality, under the law of the country in which the debtor is habitually resident.

2. In the case of maintenance obligations between spouses or ex-spouses, the debtor may oppose a claim by the creditor on the ground that there is no such obligation under the law of the country with which the marriage has the closest connection.

Justification

This provision seems to conflict with the principle of mutual recognition and to be discriminatory.

Amendment 28
Article 17

1. The law applicable to a maintenance

1. The law applicable to a maintenance obligation shall determine in particular:

(a) whether, to what extent and from whom a creditor may claim maintenance;

(b) the extent to which the creditor may claim retroactive maintenance;

(c) the calculation and indexation of the maintenance obligation;

(d) limitation periods and time limits on the institution of proceedings;

(e) the right of a public body which has provided benefits for a creditor to obtain reimbursement of those benefits and the extent of the obligation of the debtor.

2. Whatever the contents of the applicable law, the needs of the creditor and the resources of the debtor shall be taken into account in determining the amount of maintenance.

obligation shall determine in particular:

(a) whether, for what term and in what amount and from whom a creditor may claim maintenance;

(b) for what term and in what amount the creditor may claim retroactive maintenance;

(c) the calculation and indexation of the maintenance obligation;

(d) limitation periods and time limits on the institution of proceedings;

(e) the right of a public body which has provided benefits for a creditor to obtain reimbursement of those benefits and the extent of the obligation of the debtor.

2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, in determining the amount of maintenance, the court seised shall take as its basis the actual and present needs of the creditor and the actual and present resources of the debtor, taking account of the latter's reasonable needs and any other maintenance obligations to which he or she may be subject.

Justification

This amendment seeks to tighten up the wording of the Commission's text. It is important to make it clear that the actual needs of the creditor are of paramount importance and to take account of the fact that the debtor may be under a duty already to pay maintenance to, for instance, a previous partner.

Amendment 29 Article 20

The application of a provision of the law designated by this Regulation may be refused only if such application is manifestly incompatible with the public policy ('ordre public') of the forum. However, the application of a provision of the law of a Member State designated by this Regulation shall not be refused on such a ground.

The application of a provision of the law designated by this Regulation may be refused only if such application is manifestly incompatible with the public policy ('ordre public') of the forum.

Justification

This safeguard needs to be maintained.

Amendment 30
Article 21

Where a State comprises several territorial units each of which has its own rules on maintenance obligations, each territorial unit is regarded as a country for the purposes of the determination of the applicable law according to this Regulation.

A State within which different territorial units have their own rules of law in respect of maintenance obligations shall not be bound to apply this Regulation to conflicts solely between the laws of such units.

Justification

This provision reproduces the corresponding provision of Rome II. Member States comprising several territorial units with their own legal rules should be left to decide whether the provisions of the Regulation should apply as between those territorial units.

Amendment 31
Article 22, paragraph 3

3. The Member States shall inform the Commission within six months following the entry into force of this Regulation of the methods of service which are applicable. They shall communicate to the Commission any changes to this information.

3. Service may also be effected on a defendant's representative.

The Commission shall make this information publicly available.

Justification

The methods of service provided for correspond to those provided for in Regulation No 1896/2006 on the European order for payment procedure, which makes no provision for changing the applicable methods of service. For the sake of simplicity, consideration should be given to making a reference merely to Regulation (EC) No 1348/2000 of 29 May 2000 on the service in the Member States of judicial and extrajudicial documents in civil or commercial matters.

The new paragraph 3 allows service to be made on the defendant's legal representative in accordance with a provision included in Regulation No 1896/2006.

Amendment 32
Article 29

An applicant, who, in the Member State of origin has benefited from complete or partial legal aid or exemption from costs or expenses, shall be entitled, in the procedure for enforcement, to benefit from the most favourable legal aid or the most extensive exemption from costs or expenses provided for by the law of the Member State of enforcement.

An applicant who, in the Member State of origin, has benefited from complete or partial legal aid or exemption from costs or expenses shall be entitled, in the procedure for enforcement, to benefit from legal aid in accordance with the provisions of Council Directive 2003/8/EC of 27 January 2003 to improve access to justice in cross-border disputes by establishing minimum common rules relating to legal aid for such disputes¹ or the most extensive exemption from costs or expenses provided for by the law of the Member State of enforcement.

Amendment 33
Article 33, point (a)

a) the debtor asserts new circumstances or circumstances which were unknown to the court of origin when its decision was given; deleted

Justification

This provision leaves too much latitude to a maintenance debtor wishing to evade his obligations. Provision is already made in point (b) for the situation where the debtor has applied for review in the court of origin. Moreover, it is unclear how the enforcing court will be in a position to review the decision of the court of origin: not all court decisions contain an exhaustive statement of their grounds and the court where enforcement is sought does not receive the case-file.

Amendment 34
Article 35 a (new)

Article 35a

Other enforcement orders

The court seised may order all such other measures of enforcement as are provided for in its national law which it considers appropriate.

Justification

This court in which enforcement is sought should not be limited to the orders listed in the Regulation. Whereas Member States should be encouraged to consider novel means of enforcement including those that have been used to great effect in non-EU jurisdictions, courts should certainly use the full panoply of measures available to them under their national law.

Amendment 35 Article 38, paragraph 1

1. Provisions of Chapter VI shall apply as appropriate to the recognition and enforcement of authentic instruments and agreements between the parties that are enforceable. The competent authority of a Member State in which an authentic instrument or an agreement between the parties is enforceable shall issue, at the request of any interested party, an extract of act using the standard form in Annex II of this Regulation.

1. The provisions of Chapter VI shall apply as appropriate to the recognition and enforcement of authentic instruments and agreements between the parties that are enforceable. The competent authority of a Member State in which an authentic instrument or an agreement between the parties is enforceable shall issue, automatically, an extract of act using the standard form in Annex II of this Regulation.

Justification

The provisions of the Regulation should operate with a minimum of formality.

Amendment 36 Article 50

Any amendment to the Annexes of this Regulation shall be adopted in accordance with the consultative procedure set out in Article 51(2).

Any amendment to the Annexes of this Regulation shall be adopted in accordance with the advisory procedure set out in Article 51(2).

Amendment 37 Article 51

1. The Commission shall be assisted by a committee, composed of representatives of the Member States and chaired by the representatives of the Commission.

2. Where reference is made to this paragraph, the advisory procedure laid down in Articles 3 of Decision 1999/468/EC shall apply, in compliance with Article 7 (3) thereof.

1. The Commission shall be assisted by the committee provided for by Article 75 of Regulation (EC) No 44/2001.

2. Where reference is made to this paragraph, Articles 3 and 7 of Decision 1999/468/EC shall apply, having regard to the provisions of Article 8 thereof.
