PROVISIONAL AGREEMENT RESULTING FROM INTERINSTITUTIONAL NEGOTIATIONS

Subject: Proposal for a Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council amending Directive 2013/36/EU as regards supervisory powers, sanctions, third-country branches, and environmental, social and governance risks, and amending Directive 2014/59/EU (COM(2021)0663 – C9-0395/2021 – 2021/0341(COD))

The interinstitutional negotiations on the aforementioned proposal for a directive have led to a compromise. In accordance with Rule 74(4) of the Rules of Procedure, the provisional agreement, reproduced below, is submitted as a whole to the Committee on Economic and Monetary Affairs for decision by way of a single vote.

Whereas:

- (1) Competent authorities, their staff and members of their governance bodies should be independent from political and economic influence. Risks of conflicts of interest undermine the integrity of the Union financial system and harm the goal of an integrated banking and capital markets union. Directive 2013/36/EU should provide more detailed provisions for Member States to ensure that the competent authorities, including their staff and members of the competent authority's governance bodies, act independently and objectively. In this context, minimum requirements should be laid down to prevent conflicts of interest and limit "revolving doors" providing in particular cooling-off periods, a prohibition from trading instruments issued by a supervised entity as well as a maximum tenure period for relevant members of governance bodies. The European Banking Authority (EBA) should issue guidelines addressed to competent authorities on the prevention of conflicts of interests, based on international best practices.

- (1a) Members of staff and of governance bodies subject to cooling-off periods should be entitled to appropriate compensation, the purpose of which should be to compensate for the inability to take up employment with entities subject to the scope of these restrictions over a certain period . The compensation should be proportionate to the length of the relevant cooling-off period and the form of it should be decided by Member States.
- (1b) Supervisors should act with the utmost integrity in the exercise of their supervisory function. In order to increase transparency and provide high ethical standards, it is appropriate that members of staff and members of the competent authority's governance bodies submit a declaration of interests on an annual basis. This declaration should disclose information on the member's holdings of financial instruments to reduce the risk arising from conflicts of interest that may result from those holdings and allow competent authorities to manage appropriately those risks. The declaration of interests should be without prejudice to any requirement to submit a wealth declaration under applicable national rules.

- (1c) *The purpose of the amendments of Directive 2013/36/EU in connection with supervisory powers, sanctions and third country branches and environmental, social and governance risks, is to further the harmonisation of the banking supervisory framework and, ultimately, deepen the internal market for Banking. Competent authorities should seek to ensure that the supervisory framework is applied to institutions in a proportionate manner and, in particular, they should aim at reducing compliance and reporting costs for small and non-complex institutions to the extent possible, having due regard to the recommendations laid down in the Study of the Cost of Compliance with Supervisory Reporting Requirements published by the EBA in 2021, which targeted a reduction of reporting costs of 10% to 20%.

- (2) Competent authorities should have the necessary power to withdraw the authorisation granted to a credit institution where such a credit institution has been determined failing or likely to fail, there is no reasonable prospect that any alternative private sector measures or supervisory action could prevent a failure of such institution within a reasonable timeframe and a resolution action is not necessary in the public interest. In such a situation, a credit institution should be wound up in accordance with the applicable national insolvency proceedings, or in other types of proceedings laid down for those institutions under national law, which would ensure its orderly exit from the market, and should therefore discontinue the activities for which the authorisation had been granted. However, there should be no automaticity between the failing or likely to fail determination and the withdrawal of the authorisation, as for other cases where the competent authority may withdraw the authorisation. Competent authorities should exercise their powers in a manner that is proportionate and that takes into consideration the features of the applicable national insolvency proceedings, including existing judicial procedures. The power to withdraw the authorisation should not be used to prevent the opening, or force the termination, of insolvency proceedings, such as the application of a judicial moratorium or other measures which are conditional upon an active license.

- (3) The provision of core banking services as defined in the activities referred to in points 1, 2 and 6 of Annex I to Directive 2013/36/EU should be made conditional on an explicit and harmonised authorisation requirement in Union law, specifying that undertakings established in a third country and seeking to provide such core banking services in the Union should at least establish a branch in a Member State and that such branch be authorised in accordance with Union legislation, unless the undertaking wishes to provide banking services in the Union through a subsidiary.

- (3a) *The consumption of banking services outside of the Union, as per the WTO Understanding on commitments in financial services, should not be affected. The requirement to establish a branch in the Union should not apply to cases of reverse solicitation, that is where a client or counterparty approaches an undertaking established in a third country at its own exclusive initiative for the provision of banking services, including their continuation, or banking services closely related to those originally solicited and when transposing this Directive, Member States may take measures to preserve clients' acquired rights under existing contracts. Such measures should apply solely for the purpose of facilitating the transition to the implementation of the provisions of this Directive, and should be narrowly framed to avoid instances of circumvention. To prevent the circumvention of the rules applicable to the cross-border provision of banking services by third country undertakings, competent authorities should be able to monitor the provision of those services. That requirement to establish a branch should also not apply to cases of interbank and interdealer transactions. Also without prejudice to the authorisation regime provided under Directive 2014/65/EU and Regulation (EU) No 648/2012, that requirement should not apply to cases of third country credit institutions providing investment services and activities in the Union under Annex I, Section A of Directive 2014/65/EU and any accommodating ancillary services such as related deposit taking, granting credit or loans for the purpose of which is to provide services under that Directive, among which the provision of trading of financial instruments or private wealth management services. Nonetheless, the exercise of such exemption should take into account compliance with the AML/CFT rules as defined in [insert reference to AMLD].

(3b) Holding companies and financial holding companies that are parent company of a banking group should remain subject to the identification and approval mechanism set out in Directive (EU) 2019/878. Such mechanism enables competent authorities to bring certain financial holding companies and mixed financial holding companies under the direct scope of their supervision and of their supervisory powers pursuant to Directive 2013/36/EU and Regulation (EU) No 575/2013 to ensure compliance on a consolidated basis. Under specific circumstances, competent authorities should have the discretion to exempt certain holding company or mixed financial holding set up for the purpose of holding participations from approval. In addition, to cater for the specificities of certain banking group, the consolidating supervisor should be able to allow financial holding companies or mixed financial holding companies which are exempted from approval to be excluded from the perimeter of consolidation. However, the power to exclude those entities from the perimeter of consolidation of the banking group should only be exercised in exceptional circumstances, where all the conditions set out in the legislation are complied with, and , to that end, the banking group should demonstrate that holding entity that should be excluded is not involved in, or relevant for, the management of the banking group.

- (4) Supervisors of credit institutions should have all the necessary powers that enable them to perform their duties and that cover the various operations conducted by the supervised entities. To that end and to increase the level playing field, supervisors should have at their disposal all the supervisory powers enabling them to cover material operations that can be undertaken by the supervised entities. The ■ competent authorities should therefore be notified in case a material operation, including acquisitions by supervised entities of material holdings in financial or non-financial sector entities, material transfers of assets and liabilities from or to ■ supervised entities, and mergers and divisions involving ■ supervised entities, undertaken by a supervised entity raises concerns over its prudential profile, or over possible money laundering and terrorist financing activities. Furthermore, the ■ competent authorities should have the power to intervene in ■ cases of acquisition of material holdings and mergers and divisions.

- (5) Concerning mergers and divisions, the Directive (EU) 2017/1132 lays down harmonised rules and procedures, in particular for cross-border mergers and divisions of limited liability companies. Therefore, the assessment procedure by the competent authorities stipulated in this directive should be complementary to the Directive (EU) 2017/1132 and should not contradict any of its provisions. In case of those cross-border mergers and divisions which fall under the scope of Directive 2017/1132, the motivated opinion issued by the competent supervisory authority should be part of the assessment of the compliance with all relevant conditions and the proper completion of all procedures and formalities required for the pre-merger or pre-division certificate. The motivated opinion should therefore be transferred to the designated national authority responsible for issuing the pre-merger or pre-division certificate under Directive 2017/1132.

- (6) In order to ensure that competent authorities are able to intervene before one of these material operations is undertaken, they should be notified ex ante. That notification should be accompanied by information necessary for the competent authorities to assess the planned operation from a prudential and anti-money laundering and counter-terrorist financing perspective. That assessment by competent authorities should commence at the moment of the receipt of the notification including all the requested information and, in the case of the acquisition of a material holding ■ should be limited in time.
- (7) In the case of the acquisition of a ■ material holding, the conclusion of the assessment could lead the competent authority to decide to oppose to the operation. In the absence of opposition from the competent authority within a given period, the operation should be deemed approved.

- (8) In order to ensure proportionality and avoid undue administrative burden, those additional powers of competent authorities should be applicable only to operations deemed material. Only operations consisting in mergers or divisions should be treated automatically as material operations, as the newly created entity can be expected to present a significantly different prudential profile from the entities initially involved in the merger or division. Also, mergers or division should not be concluded by entities undertaking them before a prior positive opinion is received from the competent authorities. Acquisitions of holdings, when considered material, should be assessed by the competent authority based on a tacit approval procedure.
- (9) In some situations (for instance when entities established in various Member States are involved), operations might require multiple notifications and assessments from different competent authorities, requiring an efficient cooperation among those authorities. It is therefore necessary to precise cooperation obligations, in particular early cross-border notifications, smooth exchange of information, including from AML/CFT authorities, and coordination in the assessment.

- (10) It is necessary to align provisions related to the acquisition of a qualifying holding in a credit institution with provisions on the acquisition of a qualifying holding by an institution, in case both assessments have to be undertaken for the same operation. Without proper articulation these provisions could lead to inconsistencies in the assessment undertaken by competent authorities, and ultimately the decisions taken by them. ■
- (11) EBA should be mandated to develop regulatory technical standards, implementing technical standards and guidelines to ensure an appropriate framing of the use of those additional supervisory powers. Those regulatory technical standards and implementing technical standards should, in particular, specify the information to be received by the competent authorities, the elements to be assessed, and cooperation when more than one competent authorities are involved. Those various elements are crucial to ensuring that a sufficiently harmonised supervisory methodology allows provisions on the additional powers to be implemented efficiently, with the minimum possible additional administrative burden.

- (12) It is crucial that credit institutions, financial holding companies and mixed financial holding companies comply with the prudential requirements to ensure their safety and soundness and preserve the stability of the financial system, both at the level of the Union as a whole and in each Member State. Therefore, the ECB and national competent authorities should have the power to take timely and decisive measures where those credit institutions, financial holding companies and mixed financial holding companies and their effective managers fail to comply with the prudential requirements or supervisory decisions.

- (13) To ensure a level playing field in the area of sanctioning powers, Member States should be required to provide for effective, proportionate and dissuasive administrative penalties, periodic penalty payments and other administrative measures in relation to breaches of national provisions transposing ■ Directive 2013/36/EU and breaches of Regulation (EU) No 575/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council³ or decisions taken by a competent authority on the basis of those legal acts. Those administrative penalties, periodic penalty payments and other administrative measures should meet certain minimum requirements, including the minimum powers that should be vested on competent authorities to be able to impose them, the criteria that competent authorities should take into account in their application, publication requirements or the levels of administrative penalties and periodic penalty payments. Member States should lay down specific rules and effective mechanisms regarding the application of periodic penalty payments.

³ Regulation (EU) No 575/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 June 2013 on prudential requirements for credit institutions and investment firms and amending Regulation (EU) No 648/2012 (OJ L 176, 27.6.2013, p. 1).

- (14) Administrative pecuniary penalties should have a deterrent effect in order to prevent the natural or legal person in breach of national provisions transposing Directive 2013/36/EU or in breach of Regulation (EU) No 575/2013 from engaging in the same or similar conduct in the future. Member States should be required to provide for administrative penalties, which are effective, proportionate and dissuasive. In particular, Member States should be able to impose administrative penalties where the relevant breach is also subject to national criminal law. Competent authorities should have regard to any previous criminal penalties that may have been imposed on the same natural or legal person responsible for the same breach when determining the type of administrative penalties or other administrative measures and the level of administrative pecuniary penalties. This is to ensure that the severity of all the administrative penalties and other administrative measures imposed for punitive purposes in the case of accumulation of administrative and criminal proceedings is limited to what is necessary in view of the seriousness of the breach concerned. To that end, Member States should put in place appropriate mechanisms ensuring that competent authorities and judicial authorities are duly and timely informed where administrative proceedings and criminal proceedings are commenced against the same natural or legal person. EBA should be mandated to report on the application of administrative measures, periodic penalty payments and penalties.

- (16) Administrative pecuniary penalties on legal persons should be applied consistently, in particular as regards the determination of the maximum amount of administrative penalties, which should take into account the total annual net turnover of the relevant undertaking. However, currently the total annual net turnover within the meaning of Directive 2013/36/EU is neither exhaustive ■ nor sufficiently clear ■ to ensure a level playing field in the application of administrative pecuniary penalties. To ensure a consistent calculation throughout the Union, Directive 2013/36/EU should provide for a list of elements to be included in the calculation of the total annual net turnover ■ .

- (17) In addition to administrative pecuniary penalties, competent authorities should be empowered to impose periodic penalty payments on credit institutions, financial holding companies, mixed financial holding companies and on those members of the management body in its management function who are identified as responsible, in accordance with national law, for the breach of the obligation to comply with national provisions transposing Directive 2013/36/EU, their obligations under Regulation (EU) No 575/2013 or under a decision taken by a competent authority on the basis of those acts. Those enforcement measures should be imposed where a breach is continuing. Without prejudice to the procedural rights of the affected persons under applicable law, including their right to be heard, competent authorities should be able to impose those enforcement measures without having to address a prior request, order or warning to the party in breach requiring a return to compliance. Since the purpose of the periodic penalty payments is to compel natural or legal persons to terminate an ongoing breach, the application of periodic penalty payments should not prevent competent authorities from imposing subsequent administrative penalties for the same breach. It should be possible for periodic penalty payments to be imposed on a given date and to start applying at a later date.

- (18) It is necessary to lay down administrative penalties, periodic penalty payments and other administrative measures ■ in order to ensure the greatest possible scope for action following a breach and to help prevent further breaches, irrespective of their qualification as an administrative penalty or other administrative measure under national law. Member States should therefore be able to provide for additional penalties and higher level of administrative pecuniary penalties and periodic penalty payments. Unless otherwise provided for by Member States, periodic penalty payments should be calculated on a daily basis.

- (19) Competent authorities should impose periodic penalty payments that are proportionate and effective. Accordingly, the competent authority should take into account the potential impact of the periodic penalty payment on the financial situation of the legal or natural person in breach ■ and seek to avoid that the penalty would cause the legal or natural person in breach to become insolvent, cause serious financial distress or represent a disproportionate percentage of its total annual turnover or a natural person's annual income.
- Provided they are identified as being directly responsible for the breach, either individually or in the capacity as member of a collegial body, competent authorities should also ensure that periodic penalty payments are applied to the members of the management body, senior management, key function holders, other material risk takers and other natural persons different from the above mentioned.

- (20) In exceptional circumstances, where the legal system of the Member State does not allow the administrative penalties provided for in this Directive, it should be possible to exceptionally apply the rules on administrative penalties ■ in such a manner that the penalty is initiated by the competent authority and imposed by judicial authorities. Nevertheless, it is necessary that those Member States ensure that the application of the rules and penalties has an effect equivalent to the administrative penalties imposed by the competent authorities. When imposing such penalties, judicial authorities should take into account the recommendation by the competent authority initiating the penalty. The penalties imposed should be effective, proportionate and dissuasive.
- (21) In order to provide for appropriate sanctions for breaches of national provisions transposing Directive 2013/36/EU and Regulation (EU) No 575/2013, the list of breaches subject to administrative penalties, periodic penalty payments and other administrative measures should be supplemented. Therefore, the list of breaches under Article 67 of Directive 2013/36/EU should be amended.

- (22) The regulation of branches established by undertakings in a third country to provide banking services in a Member State is subject to national law and only harmonised to a very limited extent by Directive 2013/36/EU. While third country branches have a significant and increasing presence in Union banking markets, they are currently subject only to very high level information requirements, but not to any Union-level prudential standards or supervisory cooperation arrangements. The complete absence of a common prudential framework leads to third country branches' being subject to disparate national requirements of varying level of prudence and reach. Furthermore, competent authorities lack comprehensive information and the necessary supervisory tools to properly monitor the specific risks created by third country groups operating in one or various Member States through both branches and subsidiaries. There are currently no integrated supervisory arrangements in relation to them and the competent authority responsible for the supervision of each branch of a third country group is not obliged to exchange information with the competent authorities supervising the other branches and subsidiaries of the same group.

Such fragmented regulatory landscape creates risks to the financial stability and market integrity of the Union which should be properly addressed through a harmonised framework on third country branches. Such a framework should comprise minimum common requirements on authorisation, prudential standards, internal governance, supervision and reporting. This set of requirements should build on those that Member States already apply to third countries branches in their territories and should take into account similar or equivalent requirements that third countries apply to foreign branches, with the aim of ensuring consistency between Member States and aligning the Union third country branches framework with the prevailing international practices in this field.

(22a) When authorising and supervising third country branches, competent authorities should be able to perform their supervisory functions effectively. To that end they need to have access to all the necessary information on the third country branch's head undertaking from its supervisory authorities of the relevant third country and be able to effectively coordinate its supervisory activities with those of the third country supervisory authorities. Before a third country branch commences its activities, competent authorities should endeavour to conclude an agreement with the supervisory authority of the third country to enable cooperation and information exchange. Such agreement should be based on the model administrative agreements developed by EBA in accordance with Article 33(5) of Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010. Competent authorities should submit information about this agreement to EBA. Where the conclusion of such administrative agreement based on the model developed by EBA is not possible, competent authorities should be able to use other forms of agreements, for example through exchange of letters, to ensure that they can perform their supervisory functions.

- (23) For reasons of proportionality, the minimum requirements on third country branches should be catered relative to the risk that they pose to the financial stability and market integrity of the Union and the Member States. Third country branches should, therefore, be categorised as either class 1, where they are deemed riskier, or, otherwise, as class 2, where they are small and non-complex and do not pose a significant financial stability risk (consistently with the definition of "small and non-complex institution" in Regulation (EU) No 575/2013). Accordingly, third country branches with booked assets in the Member State in an amount equal to or in excess of EUR 5 000 000 000 should be regarded as posing such a greater risk due to their larger size and complexity, because their failure could lead to a significant disruption of the Member State's market for banking services or of its banking system. Third country branches authorised to accept retail deposits ■ should also be regarded similarly as riskier regardless of their size where the amount of such retail deposits exceeds a certain threshold, insofar as their failure would affect highly vulnerable depositors and could lead to a loss of confidence in the safety and soundness of the Member State's banking system to protect citizens' savings. Both of those types of third country branches should, therefore, be categorised as class 1.

- (24) Third country branches should also be classified as class 1 where the undertaking in the third country that is their head office (the “head undertaking”) is subject to regulation, oversight and implementation of such regulation that are not determined to be at least equivalent to Directive 2013/36/EU and Regulation (EU) No 575/2013 or where the relevant third country is listed as a high-risk third country that has strategic deficiencies in its regime on anti-money laundering and counter terrorist financing in accordance with Directive (EU) 2015/849⁴. Those third country branches pose a significant risk to the financial stability of the Union and of the Member State of establishment because the banking regulatory or anti-money laundering frameworks that apply to their head undertaking fail to adequately capture or permit a proper monitoring of the specific risks that arise from the activities conducted by the branch in the Member State or of the risks to counterparties in the Member State that arise from the third country group. For the purposes of determining the equivalence of the third country’s banking prudential and supervisory standards to the Union’s standards, the Commission should be able to instruct EBA to conduct an assessment in accordance with Article 33 of Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010.

EBA should ensure that the assessment is conducted in a rigorous and transparent manner and in accordance with a sound methodology. Furthermore, EBA should also consult and cooperate closely with the third countries' supervisory authorities and government departments in charge of banking regulation and, where appropriate, private sector parties, endeavouring to treat those parties fairly and to give them the opportunity to submit documentation and make representations within reasonable timeframes. Furthermore, EBA should ensure that the report issued in accordance with Article 33 of Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010 is adequately reasoned, sets out a detailed description of the assessed matters and is delivered within a reasonable timeframe.

- (25) Competent authorities should have an explicit power to require on a case-by-case basis that third country branches apply for authorisation in accordance with Title III, Chapter 1 of Directive 2013/36/EU, at a minimum where those branches engage in activities with clients or counterparties in other Member States in contravention of the internal market rules, where they pose a significant risk to the financial stability of the Union or of the Member State where they are established or where the aggregate amount of the assets of all third country branches in the Union which belong to the same third country group is equal to or higher than EUR 40 billion or the amount of the third country branch assets in the Member State where it is established is equal to or higher than EUR 10 billion. Moreover, competent authorities should be required to periodically assess whether third country branches have systemic importance where the aggregate amount of the assets of all third country branches in the Union which belong to the same group is equal to or higher than EUR 40 billion. All the third country branches that belong to the same third country group established in one Member State or across the Union should be ■ subject to such periodic assessment by the respective competent authorities.

That assessment should examine, in accordance with specific criteria, whether those branches pose an analogous level of risk to the financial stability of the Union or its Member States as institutions defined as ‘systemically important’ under Directive 2013/36/EU and Regulation EU No 575/2013. Where competent authorities conclude that the third country branches are systemically important, they should impose requirements on those branches that are appropriate to mitigate the risks to financial stability. For those purposes, competent authorities should be able to require the third country branches to apply for authorisation as subsidiary institutions under Directive 2013/36/EU in order to continue conducting banking activities in the Member State or across the Union. Moreover, competent authorities should be able to impose other requirements, in particular an obligation to restructure the third country branches’ assets or activities in the Union so that those branches stop being systemic, or a requirement to comply with additional capital, liquidity, reporting or disclosure requirements, where that would be sufficient to address the risks to financial stability. Competent authorities should have the possibility not to impose any of those requirements on third country branches assessed as systemic, in which case they should provide a reasoned notification to the EBA and the competent authorities of the Member States where the relevant third country group has established other third country branches or subsidiary institutions. In order to consider the Union-wide implications, competent authorities which decide to exercise the power to subsidarise, should, in advance, consult the EBA and the respective competent authorities.

- (26) To promote the consistency of supervisory decisions on a third country group with branches and subsidiaries across the Union, Competent authorities should, when performing the assessment of systemic importance, consult EBA and ■ competent authorities of the Member States where the relevant third country group has established other third country branches or subsidiary institutions, in order to assess the financial stability risks that the relevant third country branch may pose for the Member States other than the Member State where it is established.

- (27) Competent authorities should conduct regular reviews of third country branches' compliance with relevant requirements under Directive 2013/36/EU, and take supervisory measures on those branches to ensure or restore compliance with those requirements. To facilitate the effective supervision of the requirements on third country branches and allow for a comprehensive overview of third country groups' activities within the Union, common supervisory and financial reporting should be made available to competent authorities in accordance with standardised templates. EBA should be mandated to develop draft implementing technical standards setting out those templates and the Commission should be empowered to adopt those draft implementing technical standards. Furthermore, it is necessary to implement appropriate cooperation arrangements between competent authorities to ensure that all the activities of third country groups operating in the Union through third country branches are subject to comprehensive supervision, to prevent the requirements applicable to those groups under Union law from being circumvented and to minimise the potential risks to the financial stability of the Union. In particular, class 1 third country branches should be included within the scope of the colleges of supervisors of third country groups in the Union. Where such a college does not exist already, competent authorities should set up an ad hoc college for all class 1 third country branches of the same group where it operates in more than one Member State.

(28) The Union's third country branches framework should be applied without prejudice to the discretion that Member States may currently have to require on a general basis that third country undertakings from certain third countries conduct banking activities in their territory solely through subsidiary institutions authorised in accordance with Title III, Chapter 1 of Directive 2013/36/EU. That requirement may refer to third countries that apply banking prudential and supervisory standards that are not equivalent to the standards under the Member State's national law or to third countries that have strategic deficiencies in its regime on anti-money laundering and counter terrorist financing.

(28a) Notwithstanding currently applicable secrecy rules , the information exchange between competent authorities and tax authorities should be improved. This exchange of information should, nonetheless, be in line with national law, and, where the information originates in another Member State, agreement for disclosure should be reached between the relevant competent authorities.

- (29) Following the introduction of IFRS 9 on 1 January 2018, the outcome of the expected credit losses calculations, which is based on a modelling approaches, directly affects the amount of own funds and the regulatory ratios of institutions. The same modelling approaches are also the basis for the expected credit losses calculation where institutions apply national accounting frameworks. As a result, it is important that competent authorities and EBA have a clear view of the impact that those calculations have on the range of values for risk-weighted assets and own funds requirements that arise for similar exposures. To that end, the benchmarking exercise should cover also those modelling approaches. Given that institutions calculating capital requirements in accordance with the standardised approach for credit risk may also use models for the calculation of expected credit losses within the IFRS 9 framework, those institutions should also be included in the benchmarking exercise, taking into account the principle of proportionality.

- (30) Regulation (EU) 2019/876⁵ amended Regulation (EU) No 575/2013 by introducing a revised market risk framework developed by the Basel Committee for Banking Supervision. The alternative standardised approach that is part of that new framework allows institutions to model certain parameters used in the calculation of risk-weighted assets and own funds requirements for market risk. It is therefore important that competent authorities and EBA have a clear view of the range of values for risk-weighted assets and own funds requirements that arise for similar exposures not only under the alternative internal model approach, but also under the alternative standardised approach. As a result, the market risk benchmarking exercise should cover the revised standardised and internal model approaches, taking into account the principle of proportionality.

- (31) The global transition towards a sustainable economy as enshrined in the Paris Agreement⁶, as concluded by the Union, and the United Nations 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development will require a profound socio-economic transformation and will depend on the mobilisation of significant financial resources from the public and private sectors. The European Green Deal⁷ commits the Union to becoming climate-neutral by 2050. The financial system has a relevant role to play in supporting that transition, which relates not only to capturing and supporting the opportunities that will arise but also to properly managing the risks that it may entail. As those risks can have implications for the stability of both individual institutions and the financial system as a whole, an enhanced regulatory prudential framework that better integrates the related risks is necessary.

⁶ Council Decision (EU) 2016/1841 of 5 October 2016 on the conclusion, on behalf of the European Union, of the Paris Agreement adopted under the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (OJ L 282, 19.10.2016, p. 4).

⁷ COM(2019) 640 final.

- (32) The unprecedented scale of transition towards a sustainable, climate-neutral and circular economy will have considerable impacts on the financial system. In 2018, the Network of Central Banks and Supervisors for Greening the Financial System⁸ acknowledged that climate-related risks are a source of financial risk. The Commission's Renewed Sustainable Finance Strategy⁹ emphasises that environmental, social and governance (ESG) risks, and risks stemming from the physical impact of climate change, biodiversity loss and the broader environmental degradation of ecosystems in particular, pose an unprecedented challenge to our economies and to the stability of the financial system. Those risks present specificities such as their forward-looking nature and their distinctive impacts over short, medium and long-term time horizons. The specificity of climate-related and other environmental risks, for example risks stemming from environmental degradation and biodiversity loss, as regards both transition and physical risks, requires in particular to manage those risks with a long-term horizon of at least 10 years.

⁸ Launched at the Paris One Planet Summit on 12 December 2017, is a group of Central Banks and Supervisors willing, on a voluntary basis, to share best practices and contribute to the development of environment and climate risk management in the financial sector and to mobilise mainstream finance to support the transition toward a sustainable economy.

- (33) The long-term nature and the profoundness of the transition towards a sustainable, climate-neutral and circular economy will entail significant changes in the business models of institutions. The adequate adjustment of the financial sector, and of credit institutions in particular, is necessary to achieve the objective of net-zero greenhouse gas emissions in the Union's economy by 2050, while maintaining the inherent risks under control. Competent authorities should, therefore, be enabled to assess this process and intervene in cases where institutions' manage climate risks, as well as risks stemming from environmental degradation and biodiversity loss, in a way that endangers the stability of the individual institutions, or financial stability overall. Competent authorities should also monitor and be empowered to act ■ when there are risks arising from transition trends towards the relevant Member States and Union regulatory objectives in relation to environmental, social and governance factors, for example as set out in Regulation (EU) 2021/1119 ("European Climate Law"), the Fit for 55 package and the post-2020 Global Biodiversity Framework, as well as, where relevant for internationally active institutions, third country legal and regulatory objectives, resulting in risks to their business models and strategies, or to financial stability.

The powers of competent authorities should also be used to reinforce targets, measures, and actions of institutions' prudential plans where they are considered insufficient to address the ESG risks in the short, medium and long term time horizon and may in that regard pose material risks to their solvability. Climate and, more broadly, environmental risks, should be considered together with social risks and governance risks under one category of risks to enable a comprehensive and coordinated integration of these factors, as they are often intertwined. ESG risks are closely linked with the concept of sustainability, as ESG factors represent the main three pillars of sustainability.

- (34) To maintain adequate resilience to the negative impacts of ESG factors, institutions established in the Union need to be able to systematically identify, measure and manage ESG risks, and their supervisors need to assess the risks at the level of the individual institution as well as at the systemic level, giving priority to environmental factors and progressing to the other sustainability factors as the methodologies and tools for the assessment evolve. Institutions should assess the alignment of their portfolios with the ambition of the Union to become climate-neutral by 2050 as well as avert environmental degradation and biodiversity loss. Institutions should set out specific plans to address the financial risks arising, in the short, medium and long term, from environmental, social and governance factors, including from transition trends towards the relevant regulatory objectives of the Union and Member States, for example as set out in the Paris Agreement, Regulation (EU) 2021/1119¹⁰, the Fit for 55 package¹¹ and the post-2020 Global Biodiversity Framework, as well as, where relevant for internationally active institutions, third country legal and regulatory objectives.

Institutions should be required to have robust governance arrangements and internal processes for the management of ESG risks and to have in place strategies approved by their management bodies that take into consideration not only the current but also the forward-looking impact of ESG factors. The collective knowledge and awareness of ESG factors by the management body and institutions' internal capital allocation to address ESG risks will also be key to strengthen resilience to the negative impacts of these risks. The specificities of ESG risks mean that understanding, measurements and management practices can differ significantly across institutions. To ensure convergence across the Union and a uniform understanding of ESG risks, appropriate definitions and minimum standards for the assessment of those risks should be provided in prudential regulation.

To achieve this objective, definitions should be laid down in Regulation (EU) No 575/2013 and EBA should be empowered to specify a minimum set of reference methodologies for the assessment of the impact of ESG risks on the financial stability of institutions, giving priority to the impact of environmental factors. Since the forward-looking nature of ESG risks means that scenario analysis and stress testing, together with plans for addressing those risks, are particularly informative assessment tools, EBA should be also empowered to develop uniform criteria for the content of the plans to address those risks and for the setting of scenarios and applying the stress testing methods. EBA should base its scenarios on available scientific evidence, building on the work of the Network for Greening the Financial System and the efforts by the Commission to strengthen cooperation between all relevant public authorities with a view to developing a common methodological base, as outlined in point c of Action 5 of the Communication of the Commission of 6 July 2021 on the Strategy for Financing the Transition to a Sustainable Economy. Environment-related risks, including climate related risks and risks stemming from environmental degradation and biodiversity loss, ■ should take priority in light of their urgency and the particular relevance of scenario analysis and stress testing for their assessment.

(34a) As major providers of funding for businesses and households in the Union, institutions have a relevant role to play in promoting sustainable development across the Union. For the Union to deliver on its overall climate neutrality objective as set out in Regulation (EU) 2021/1119, institutions need to integrate into the definition and implementation of their policies and activities the role of promoting sustainable development. To cater for this process, institutions' business model and strategy must be contrasted against the relevant Union regulatory objectives towards a sustainable economy, for example against the measures prescribed by the European Scientific Advisory Board on Climate Change, to identify their ESG risks from misalignments. Where institutions disclose their sustainability objectives and commitments under other mandatory or voluntary sustainability frameworks, such as under Directive 2013/34/EU, those objectives should be consistent with the specific plans to address the ESG risks they may face, in the short, medium and long term. The competent authorities should assess through their relevant supervisory activities the extent to which institutions face ESG risks and have accompanying management policies and operational actions reflected in the targets and milestones defined in their prudential plans that are consistent with their disclosed sustainability commitments in the context of the process of adjustment towards climate neutrality by 2050. To promote sound and effective risk oversight as well as managerial behaviour in alignment with their long-term strategy on sustainability, the risk appetite of institutions in relation to ESG risks should be an integral part of their remuneration policies and practices.

- (35) ESG risks can have far-reaching implications for the stability of both individual institutions and the financial system as a whole. Hence, competent authorities should consistently factor those risks into their relevant supervisory activities, including the supervisory evaluation and review process (SREP) and the stress testing of those risks. The ■ Commission, via its Technical Support Instrument, has been providing support to national competent authorities in developing and implementing stress testing methodologies and stands ready to continue to provide technical support in this respect. However, the stress testing methodologies for ESG risks have so far mainly been applied in an exploratory manner. To firmly and consistently embed stress testing of ESG risks in supervision, EBA, the European Supervisory Authority (European Insurance and Occupational Pensions Authority) (EIOPA) and the European Supervisory Authority (European Securities and Markets Authority) (ESMA) should jointly develop guidelines to ensure consistent considerations and common methodologies for stress testing ESG risks. Stress testing of those risks should start with climate and environment-related factors, and as more ESG risk data and methodologies become available to support the development of additional tools to assess their quantitative impact on financial risks, competent authorities should increasingly assess the impact of those risks in their adequacy assessments of ■ institutions. In order to ensure convergence of supervisory practices, EBA should issue guidelines regarding the uniform inclusion of ESG risks in the SREP.

(35a) Crypto-asset markets have grown rapidly in recent years. To address potential risks for institutions caused by exposures to crypto-assets that are not yet sufficiently covered by the existing prudential framework, the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision developed a standard for the prudential treatment of crypto-asset exposures. Part of this standard concerns the risk management by institutions and the application of the supervisory review process on institutions. Institutions with direct or indirect exposures to crypto-assets or that provide related services to any form of crypto-asset should be required to have risk management policies, processes and practices in place to appropriately manage risks caused by their exposure to crypto-assets. In particular, in their risk management activities, institutions should consider the crypto-asset technology risks, general ICT and cyber risks, legal risks, money laundering and terrorist financing risks and valuation risks. Competent authorities should be able to take the necessary supervisory actions where the institutions' risk management practices are deemed insufficient.

- (36) The provisions in Article 133 of Directive 2013/36/EU on the systemic risk buffer framework may already be used to address various kinds of systemic risks, including systemic risks related to climate change. To the extent that the institution's competent or designated authorities, as applicable, consider that risks related to climate change have the potential to have serious negative consequences for the financial system and the real economy in Member States, they should introduce a systemic risk buffer rate which could also be applied to certain sets or subsets of exposures for instance for those subject to physical and transition risks related to climate change, where they consider the introduction of such rate effective and proportionate to mitigate those risks.

- (37) The purpose of assessing the suitability of members of management bodies is to ensure that those members are qualified for their role and are of good repute. Having a robust “fit-and-proper” framework for assessing the suitability of members of the management body and key function holders is a crucial factor to ensure that institutions are adequately run and their risks appropriately managed. Existing rules do not ensure that there is a timely suitability assessment of members of the management body by the appointing institution. Furthermore, there are currently no rules for the suitability assessment of key function holders. Moreover, cross-border institutions must navigate through a wide diversity of national rules and processes, which does not make the current system efficient. The existence of considerably different requirements as regards the suitability assessment across the Union is a particularly relevant issue in the context of the Banking Union. As a result, it is important to provide a set of rules at Union level to put in place a more consistent and predictable “fit-and-proper” framework. This will foster supervisory convergence, ■ further enable trust between competent authorities and provide more legal certainty to institutions. “Fit-and-proper” assessments are an important supervisory element along with other mechanisms such as the supervisory review and evaluation process (SREP) and remuneration rules that together ensure sound governance of institutions.

- (37a) To ensure sound governance, facilitate independent opinions and critical challenges, and present a variety of views and experiences, the management body should be sufficiently diverse as regards age, gender, geographical provenance and educational and professional background. Gender balance is of particular importance to ensure adequate representation of the population, and should be promoted.
- (38) ■ Having the primary responsibility for assessing the suitability of each member of the management body, entities should carry out the initial suitability assessment before a new member takes up the position, subject to certain exceptions, followed by a verification by the competent authorities. Entities should ensure that information about the suitability of the members of the management body remains up to-date. Entities should communicate that information to the competent authority. As soon as any new facts or other issues that may affect the suitability of members of the management body are known, entities should inform the competent authorities thereof without undue delay. Entities should take the necessary measures if they conclude that a member or a prospective member of the management body does not fulfil the suitability requirements. These requirements should also apply to key function holders.

(38a) In order to ensure legal certainty and predictability for entities, it is necessary to establish procedural rules for verifying the suitability of members of the management body and key function holders of large institutions by competent authorities. Such procedural rules should enable competent authorities to request any additional information where necessary, including through documentation, interviews and hearings. Information and documents that are necessary for the suitability assessment by the competent authorities, including in the context of the ex ante application by large institutions for members of the management body in its executive function or the chair of the management body in its supervisory function, should be transferred to the competent authorities by means that are determined by the competent authorities. Competent authorities should re-assess a member's suitability in case the relevant information concerning his or her suitability has changed. Competent authorities should not be required to reassess the suitability of the members of the management body when their mandate is renewed, unless relevant information that is known to competent authorities has changed and such change may affect the suitability of the member concerned. Competent authorities should have the power to take the necessary measures if they conclude that the suitability requirements are not fulfilled. Competent authorities may request the competent authority for the supervision of anti-money laundering to consult, on a risk-sensitive basis, the relevant information concerning the members of the management body, and to have access to the Central AML/CFT database.

(38b) Due to the risks posed by large institutions resulting in particular from potential contagion effects, the competent authorities of Member States in which the supervisor's suitability assessment is carried out after the member has taken up the position in the management body, in accordance with national law, should be notified without undue delay as soon as there is a clear intention to appoint a member of the management body in its executive function or the chair of the management body in its supervisory function. Large institutions should in any case ensure that competent authorities receive a suitability application at the latest 30 working days before the individual takes up the position. This ex ante application should be accompanied by all relevant documents and information that is necessary for the assessment, irrespective of whether the suitability assessment by the competent authorities is finalised before or after the person takes up the position. If criminal records or other documents required under national law or listed by competent authorities become available at a later stage, competent authorities should also receive these documents or information without undue delay. This ex ante application should enable the competent authorities to start their analysis and take action in the context of the assessment.

Such action can include preventing the appointee from taking up the position as long as the competent authority does not receive sufficient information, or engaging in an enhanced dialogue in case the competent authority has concerns regarding the prospective member's suitability with a view to ensuring that the candidate is or becomes suitable when taking up his or her position. The EBA should issue guidelines on the modalities of this focused and in-depth dialogue between the competent authority and the large institution with a view to removing any obstacles to the suitability of the candidate in a spirit of cooperation. The ex ante application should allow the competent authorities to engage in an early dialogue with the large institutions on the suitability of members of the management body in its executive function or the chair of the management body in its supervisory function before they take up their position. However, the ex ante application should be without prejudice to the large institution's prerogative and responsibility when ensuring the suitability of the members of the management body, and to any ex post assessments conducted by the competent authorities, where permitted in accordance with national law.

- (38c) Furthermore in relation to large institutions, competent authorities should duly consider setting a maximum period for concluding the suitability assessment, at least with respect to the appointment of members of the management body and the appointment of the head of internal control functions and the chief financial officer, for a position in such ■ institutions. Such a maximum period should be able to be extended where appropriate.
- (38d) In any case, the assessment of the members of the management body should be without prejudice to the provisions of the Member States on the appointment of representatives of employees in the management body and on the appointment of members of the management body in its supervisory function by regional or local elected bodies. In these cases, appropriate safeguards should be put in place to ensure the suitability of these members of the management body.

- (39) By 31 December 2029, the EBA, in close cooperation with the ECB, should review and report on the application and efficiency of the ‘fit-and-proper’ framework, taking also into account the principle of proportionality in particular with respect to small and non-complex institutions.
- (40a) EBA should develop guidelines on the criteria to determine whether there are reasonable grounds to suspect that money laundering or terrorist financing is being or has been committed or attempted, or there is increased risk thereof in connection with an entity. When developing those guidelines, the EBA should cooperate with the European Securities and Markets Authority and with the authority to be established by a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council establishing the Authority for Anti-Money Laundering and Countering the Financing of Terrorism (‘Authority for Anti-Money Laundering and Countering the Financing of Terrorism’), once it is established. In case the Authority for Anti-Money Laundering and Countering the Financing of Terrorism is not operational when those guidelines are prepared, the EBA should adopt those guidelines without having to cooperate with that authority.

- (41) In light of the role of the suitability assessment for the prudent and sound management of institutions, it is necessary to equip competent authorities with new tools ■ to assess the suitability of members of ■ management body , senior management and key function holders, such as statements of responsibilities and a mapping of duties. Those new tools should support the work of competent authorities when reviewing the governance arrangements of institutions as part of the supervisory review and evaluation process. Notwithstanding the overall responsibility of the management body as a collegial body, institutions should be required to draw up individual statements setting out the roles and ■ duties of all members of the management body in its management function, senior management and key function holders and a mapping of duties, including details of the reporting lines, of the lines of responsibility, and of the persons who are part of the governance arrangements of the institution, and of their duties. Their individual duties and responsibilities are not always clearly or consistently laid down and there may be situations where two or more roles overlap or where areas of duties and responsibilities are overlooked because they do not fall neatly under the remit of a single person. The scope of each individual's duties and responsibilities should be well defined and no tasks should be left without ownership. Those tools should ensure further accountability of the members of the management body in its management ■ function, senior management and key function holders.
- Furthermore where Member States consider it necessary, they should be able to adopt or retain stricter requirements for such tools.

- (43) The additional own funds requirement set by an institution's competent authority in accordance with Article 104(1), point (a), of Directive 2013/36/EU to address risks other than the risk of excessive leverage should not be increased as a result of the institution becoming bound by the output floor laid down in Regulation (EU) No 575/2013, all else being equal. Furthermore, upon the institution's becoming bound by the output floor, the competent authority should review the institution's additional own funds requirement and assess, in particular, whether and to what extent such requirements are already fully covered by the fact that the institution is bound by the output floor. ■ Where that is the case, the institution's additional own funds requirement should be regarded as overlapping with the risks captured by the output floor in the own funds requirement of the institution and, consequently, the competent authority should reduce that requirement to the extent necessary to remove any such overlap for as long as the institution remains bound by the output floor.

- (44) Similarly, upon becoming bound by the output floor, the nominal amount of an institution's CET1 capital required under the systemic risk buffer and O-SII buffer could increase although there has not been a corresponding increase in the macroprudential or systemic risks associated with the institution. In such cases, the institution's competent or designated authority, as applicable, should review the calibration of the systemic risk buffer rates and make sure that they remain appropriate and do not double-count the risks that are already covered by virtue of the fact that the institution is bound by the output floor. Such review should take place with the same frequency as the review of the buffers, which is annual for the O-SII buffer and every two years for the systemic risk buffer **■ .
However, it should be possible for the institution's competent or designated authority, as applicable, to adjust the calibration of the buffers on a more frequent basis.

- (46) To enable the timely and effective activation of the systemic risk buffer it is necessary to clarify the application of the relevant provisions and simplify and align the applicable procedures. Setting a systemic risk buffer should be possible for designated authorities in all Member States to ensure that authorities are empowered to address systemic risks in a timely, proportionate and effective manner and to enable the recognition of systemic risk buffer rates set by authorities in other Member States ■ . Recognition of a systemic risk buffer rate set by another Member State should require only a notification from the authority recognising the rate. To avoid unnecessary authorisation procedures where the decision to set a buffer rate results in a decrease or no change from any of the previously set rates, the procedure laid down in Article 131(15) of Directive 2013/36/EU needs to be aligned with the procedure laid down in Article 133(9) of that Directive. The procedures laid down in Article 133(11) and (12) of that Directive should be clarified and made more consistent with the procedures applying for other systemic risk buffer rates, where relevant.
- (46a) When drafting technical standards, guidelines and when replying to questions relating to the practical application or implementation, EBA should take into due consideration the principle of proportionality and ensure that those acts can also be applied to by small and non-complex institutions without undue effort,

'4. Member States shall ensure that competent authorities have the expertise, resources, operational capacity, powers and independence necessary to carry out the functions relating to prudential supervision, investigations and the powers to impose periodic penalty payments and penalties set out in this Directive and in Regulation (EU) No 575/2013. For the purposes of preserving the independence of competent authorities in the exercise of their powers, Member States shall provide ■ the necessary arrangements to ensure that those competent authorities, including their staff and members of their governance bodies, can exercise their supervisory powers independently and objectively, without seeking or taking instructions ■ from supervised institutions, from any government of a Member State or body of the Union or from any other public or private body. Member States shall ensure that governance bodies of the competent authorities are functionally independent of other public and private bodies. These arrangements shall be without prejudice to the arrangements under national law whereby the competent authorities are subject to public and democratic accountability.

Member States shall ensure that no member of the governance body who is appointed after [OP please insert the date = 1 day after the transposition deadline of this amending Directive] stays in office for more than fourteen years. Member States shall ensure that members of the governance bodies are appointed based on objective, transparent and published criteria and can be dismissed if they no longer meet the criteria of appointment or have incurred serious criminal convictions. The reasons for dismissal shall be publicly disclosed unless publication is objected by the member of the governance body concerned. Member States shall ensure that competent authorities publish their objectives, are accountable for the discharge of their duties in relation to those objectives and are subject to financial control which does not affect their independence.

These arrangements shall be without prejudice to the rights and obligations of the competent authorities as stemming from being part of the international system of financial supervision or part of the European systems of financial supervision as stemming from Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010 ■ , the Single Supervisory Mechanism as stemming from Council Regulation (EU) No 1024/2013 ■ and Regulation (EU) No 468/2014 of the European Central Bank ■ , for the Single Resolution Mechanism as ■ stemming from Regulation (EU) No 806/2014 ■ .

Member States shall, in particular, ensure that competent authorities have in place all the necessary arrangements to prevent conflicts of interests of their staff and members of their governance bodies. For those purposes, Member States shall lay down rules proportionate to the role and responsibilities of those staff and members of the governance bodies, and at a minimum prohibiting them from:

- (a) trading in financial instruments issued by or referenced to the institutions supervised by the competent authorities, and the direct or indirect parent undertakings, subsidiaries or affiliates of those institutions, with the exception of:
 - (i) instruments managed by third parties, provided that the owners of the instruments are precluded from intervening in the management of the portfolio;
 - (ii) investments in collective investment undertakings;

The exceptions provided for in points (a)(i) and (a)(ii) shall only apply where the third parties and collective investment undertakings do not predominantly invest in instruments issued by or referenced to the entities referred to in point (a).

- (b) ■ being hired by or accepting any kind of contractual agreement for the provision of professional services for a period of time (“cooling off period”) with any of the following:
 - (i) institutions in relation to which the member of staff or the member of the governance body has been directly involved with, for the purposes of supervision or decision-making, as well as their direct or indirect parent undertakings, subsidiaries or affiliates **■ ;

- (ii) entities that provide services to any of the undertakings referred to in point (i), unless that staff and those members of the governance bodies of competent authorities are strictly precluded from taking part in any provision of those services while the prohibition referred to herein remains in force;
- (iii) entities conducting lobbying and advocacy activities directed at the competent authority on matters for which the member of staff or the member of the governance body were responsible during their employment.

The cooling off period shall start from the date on which the direct involvement in the supervision of the institution ceased. Competent authorities shall ensure that the members of staff and the members of governance bodies have no access to confidential or sensitive information in relation to supervised institutions during this cooling off period. In case of hires by entities referred to in points (b)(i) and (b)(ii) the length of the cooling off length shall be no less than six months for members of staff directly involved in the supervision of institutions and no less than twelve months for the members of the competent authority's governance bodies. In case of hires by entities referred to in point (b)(iii) the length of the cooling off length shall be no less than three months for both members of staff directly involved in the supervision of institutions and members of the competent authority's governance bodies.

Member States may allow competent authorities to subject the staff members and members of the governance bodies referred to in point (b)(i) to a cooling off period in the event of hires by direct competitors of one of the undertakings referred to in point (b)(i). For these purposes, the length of the cooling off period shall be no less than three months for members of staff directly involved in the supervision of the competing institutions and no less than six months for the members of the competent authority's governance bodies.

Member States shall ensure that the members of staff and members of the competent authority's governance bodies are subject to a declaration of interest. The declaration shall include information on the member's holdings in the form of stocks, equities, bonds, mutual funds, investment funds, mixed-type funds, hedge funds and exchange traded funds, that may raise conflict of interest concerns. The members shall submit the declaration of interest prior to their appointment and subsequently on an annual basis. The declaration of interest shall be without prejudice to any requirement to submit a wealth declaration under applicable national rules;

Where a member of staff or the governance bodies owns financial instruments that may give rise to conflicts of interest at the time of being hired or appointed or at any time thereafter, the competent authority shall have the power to require on a case-by-case basis that those instruments be sold or disposed of within a reasonable time. Competent authorities shall also have the power to allow on a case-by-case basis that those members referred to in point (a) sell or dispose of financial instruments that they owned at the time of being hired or appointed.'

By way of derogation from the fifth subparagraph point (b) , Member States may allow competent authorities to apply shorter cooling off periods, with a minimum of three months, for the members of staff directly involved in the supervision of institutions only when a longer cooling off period:

- (a) unduly restricts the ability of the competent authority to hire new members of staff with the adequate or necessary skills for the performance of its supervisory functions, in particular taking into account the small size of the domestic labour market; or
- (b) constitutes a breach of any relevant fundamental right recognised in the constitution of the Member State, the European Charter of Human Rights, or of any relevant workers' rights as set out in the labour laws of the Member State.

Members of staff and of governance bodies subject to the prohibitions provided for in the third subparagraph, point (b) shall be entitled to an appropriate compensation for the inability to take up a prohibited role. Member States shall decide on the appropriate form of compensation.

- (e) paragraphs 11 and 12 are replaced by the following:

Where the setting or resetting of a systemic risk buffer rate or rates on any set or subset of exposures referred to in paragraph 5 subject to one or more systemic risk buffers results in a combined systemic risk buffer rate at a level higher than 3 % and up to 5 % for any of those exposures, the competent authority or the designated authority of the Member State that sets that buffer shall request in the notification submitted in accordance with paragraph 9 the opinions of the Commission and the ESRB. Within a month of receipt of the notification referred to in paragraph 9, the ESRB shall provide the Commission with an opinion as to whether the systemic risk buffer rate or rates is deemed appropriate. Within two months of receipt of the notification, the Commission, taking into account the assessment of the ESRB, shall provide its opinion ■ .

Where one or more institutions to which one or more systemic risk buffer rates apply is a subsidiary the parent of which is established in another Member State, the ESRB and the Commission shall also consider in their opinions whether applying the systemic risk buffer rate or rates to those institutions is deemed appropriate.

For the purposes of this paragraph, the recognition of a systemic risk buffer rate set by another Member State in accordance with Article 134 shall not count towards the thresholds referred to in the first subparagraph of this paragraph.

12. Where the setting or resetting of a systemic risk buffer rate or rates on any set or subset of exposures referred to in paragraph 5 subject to one or more systemic risk buffers results in a combined systemic risk buffer rate higher than 5 % for any of those exposures, the competent authority or the designated authority, as applicable, shall seek the authorisation of the Commission before implementing a systemic risk buffer.
- Within six weeks of receipt of the notification referred to in paragraph 9 of this Article, the ESRB shall provide the Commission with an opinion as to whether the systemic risk buffer is deemed appropriate. Within three months of receipt of the notification referred to in paragraph 9, the Commission, taking into account the assessment of the ESRB and EBA, where relevant, and where it is satisfied that the systemic risk buffer rate or rates do not entail disproportionate adverse effects on the whole or parts of the financial system of other Member States or of the Union as a whole forming or creating an obstacle to the proper functioning of the internal market, shall adopt an act authorising the competent authority or the designated authority, as applicable, to adopt the proposed measure.

For the purposes of this paragraph, the recognition of a systemic risk buffer rate set by another Member State in accordance with Article 134 shall not count towards the threshold referred to in the first subparagraph of this paragraph.';

 - (c) in paragraph 4, point (b) is replaced by the following:
 - '(b) exercise its powers under Article 102 to impose more stringent restrictions on distributions than those required by Articles 141 and 141b, as applicable.';
