LUX Audience Award 2023: shortlisted films to be announced on Saturday

On Saturday 10 December, the five nominations for the LUX European Audience Film Award will be announced live from the Harpa concert hall in Reykjavik.

The 35th European Film Awards ceremony can be followed via the European Film Academy website on Saturday 10 December from 20:00 CET.

EU citizens will soon be able to rate the nominated films on the new LUX European Audience Film Award web platform. Together with MEPs, they will decide who the next LUX Award winner will be.
The rating period will conclude on 12 June 2023, with the winning film to be announced on 14 June 2023 during a Parliament plenary sitting in Strasbourg.

Background: the LUX Audience award

LUX – The European Audience Film Award by the European Parliament in partnership with the European Film Academy, European Commission and Europa Cinemas network, supports quality European films that address values on which the EU is built - human dignity, equality and non-discrimination, inclusion, tolerance, justice and solidarity.

The LUX audience award is an innovative way to explore these major European policy areas and to reflect on European values.

Through its film prize, Parliament has been supporting the distribution of European films since 2007, by providing subtitles in 24 EU languages for the nominated films.

In 2022, “Quo vadis, Aida?” by Bosnian director Jasmila Žbanić won the LUX European Audience Film Award.
