The Week Ahead 01 – 07 July 2024

European elections: provisional results

The European elections took place from 6 to 9 June. Provisional results are published on the European elections website and are being regularly updated until the constitutive session of Parliament’s tenth legislative term, which will take place on 16-19 July in Strasbourg.

On the election website, you will also find national results, seats by political group and country, a breakdown of national parties and political groups, and data on turnout. You can also compare results, check majorities and create your own widget.

Political groups: constitutive meetings continue

The EPP, S&D, Renew and the Greens/EFA groups already held their constitutive meetings. ECR, ID and The Left groups’ constitutive meeting are scheduled for 3 July.

Rule 33 of Parliament’s rules of procedure stipulates that a political group must be made up of at least 23 MEPs elected in at least seven member states. In order for a group to be set up, the EP President has to be notified of the name of the group, its members and bureau members and of its political declaration setting out its values, the main political objectives and describing the common political orientation of the group.

More information on what happens after the European elections can be found here.

President’s diary. On Wednesday, EP President Roberta Metsola will be in Portugal, where she will meet the Portuguese Prime Minister Luís Montenegro.

Useful contacts for journalists covering the European Parliament’s activities.
THE PRESIDENT’S DIARY

The President's diary

Tuesday 02 July 2024
10:00 President Metsola presides over the Conference of Presidents meeting

The President's diary

Wednesday 03 July 2024
In Portugal

President Metsola meets with the Prime Minister of Portugal, Luís Montenegro

President Metsola attends the EPP Group Study Days