FORM FOR TABLING A QUESTION FOR ORAL ANSWER WITH DEBATE (Rule 128)

SUBJECT: Patents and Plant breeders' rights
A recent decision (G2/12 and G2/13) of the Enlarged Board of Appeal of the European Patent Office (EPO) creates the possibility to patent plant traits, also when these traits are developed from or could be obtained with essentially biological breeding techniques. This decision signifies a narrow interpretation of Article 53(b) of the European Patent Convention and thus implies broad possibilities for the granting of patents covering plant varieties. This goes directly against the breeder's exception, explained in article 15 of the 1991 Act of the UPOV Convention and article 15 of the EU Regulation 2100/94. Unrestricted access to biological material is necessary in order to stimulate the innovative strength of the plant breeding sector. The decision of the EPO undermines the innovative ability of the plant breeding sector to develop new varieties and poses a threat to global food production and food security. It will have a negative impact on European competitiveness and may lead to monopolies on the food market by decreasing the diversity of products offered to consumers. It is of utmost importance to balance European legislation (in particular Directive 98/44/EC) in order to fulfil international obligations on intellectual property rights (UPOV) and to boost the innovative competitiveness within the European plant breeding sector. Rule 26 of the Implementing Regulations of the EPC states that Directive 98/44/EC shall be used as a supplementary means of interpretation for European patent applications and patents concerning biotechnological inventions. A clarification in Directive 98/44/EC will have an immediate effect on the practice of the EPO. 1) Is the Commission aware that the decision of the EPO hampers innovation by making breeders dependant on patent holders and consequently will have an effect on global food production and food security? 2) Can the Commission with great urgency, revise or update, and in the short term clarify Directive 98/44/EC in order to ensure the effective exemption of plant varieties and traits from patentability and to secure the unrestricted use of biological material by breeders to stimulate innovation, guarantee a level playing field and create more opportunities for SMEs within the plant breeding sector as requested in resolution T7-0202/2012 of the European Parliament? UBJECT: (please specify) On a new Animal Welfare Strategy for 2016-2020
The Commission Communication COM(2012)0006 on the Strategy for the Protection and Welfare of Animals 2012-2015 was much welcomed by the European Parliament as it has set a clear roadmap for actions in the EU animal welfare policy field during the last five years. The European Parliament was particularly pleased that the Strategy has introduced many aspects of the Parliament resolution (2009/2202 (INI) of 5 May 2010. The Parliament appreciates the progress made so far and encourages the Commission to make sure that the still outstanding actions points will be delivered in time. Will the Commission draw up a new strategy for the protection and welfare of animals for the years 2016-2020 so as to ensure continuity and clarity of operations which are essential to achieve further positive developments in EU animal welfare policy? Will the Commission, as a crucial part of a new animal welfare strategy, prepare a proposal for a simplified EU legislative framework for animal welfare as called for by the Parliament in its resolution on the European Union Strategy for the Protection and Welfare of Animals 2012-2015 (2012/2043 (INI))?
