Povzetek This EPRS paper analyses progress made in carrying through the policy agenda set by Ursula von der Leyen, President of the European Commission, and her College of Commissioners when they took office in December 2019. It looks in particular at the state of play with respect to delivery of the agenda's six key priorities, as we enter the final year running up to the 2024 European elections. The von der Leyen Commission – either on taking office or more recently – has announced a total of 597 planned initiatives. In concrete terms, EPERS finds that almost two thirds (379) have now been submitted and, for those which are legislative proposals, the co-legislators have started work. Of the 379, almost half (188) have already been adopted by the co-legislators, or, for the non-legislative initiatives (such as strategies, action plans and other communications, amounting to nearly one fifth of the total), by the Commission itself. The vast majority of the remainder are either close to adoption (28) or proceeding normally through the legislative process (129). On the other hand, almost one fifth are moving slowly or are blocked (34). While the Commission's first priority – the European Green Deal – ranks highest in terms of the number of initiatives planned (148), the third, fourth and fifth priorities – 'An economy that works for people', 'A stronger Europe in the world', and 'Promoting our European way of life' – have higher numbers of initiatives actually adopted so far (38, 40 and 36 respectively).

Povzetek José María Gil-Robles Gil-Delgado is so far the only Spaniard from the European People's Party (EPP) to serve as President of the European Parliament. He embodied a particular tradition within Spanish political life: Christian democracy. Son of the historical leader of the Spanish Right during the Second Spanish Republic, Gil-Robles lived with his family in exile in Portugal during the Spanish Civil War. He came back to Spain along with his monarchist father to oppose the dictatorship, and became very active in the European Movement and European Christian democracy organisations, helping to pave the way for national reconciliation and a democratic transition. After the dismal failure of the Christian Democratic Party in Spain's first free elections in 1977, and following the transformation of the Alianza Popular into the Partido Popular and its accession to the EPP, Gil-Robles was elected to the European Parliament in 1989. Re-elected in 1994, he became a vice president and then, from 1997 until 1999, President. During his years in office, he represented the European Parliament in the negotiations leading to the Treaty of Amsterdam. Gil-Robles played a crucial role in consolidating Parliament's scrutiny of the European Commission during the historic process that led to the resignation of the Santer Commission in 1999, putting his role as President above his personal and political connections and interests. Re-elected to Parliament for a third term, he chaired several parliamentary intergroups that reflected his Christian conviction that solidarity and human dignity were at the core of the European project. In favour of the Constitutional Treaty and later of the Lisbon Treaty, Gil-Robles supported deeper European integration, a movement that he compared to that of a tortoise. Once he had retired from Parliament, Gil-Robles remained active as Jean Monnet Chair in Madrid, and President of the Jean Monnet Foundation and of the Association of Former Members of the European Parliament.

Povzetek Plenary debates on the conclusions of European Council meetings with the president of the European Council are among the most visible and frequently recurring interactions between Parliament and the European Council. These debates are important because they are the only place at EU level where the results of European Council meetings are examined and scrutinised, and the institution is held accountable. By examining and assessing the reports made by Charles Michel to the European Parliament following European Council meetings in 2022, and the subsequent interventions of MEPs, this EPRI analysis provides a unique overview of these interactions. The research outlines the added value of the plenary reports and identifies potential ways to further increase the accountability of the European Council at EU level.

Povzetek The highlights of the January I 2023 plenary session were debates on the conclusions of the European Council meeting of 15 December 2022 and the presentation of activities planned under the Swedish Presidency of the Council of the European Union. The session opened with a ceremony marking the 30th anniversary of the single market, followed by a debate with the Council and Commission on the matter. Debates were held on the surge of respiratory infections and the shortage of medication in Europe; on the need to increase transparency, integrity and accountability in the EU institutions; on terrorist threats posed by far-right extremist networks; on criminalisation of humanitarian assistance, as well as on the Global Gateway. Members also debated foreign affairs issues, including the EU's response to the appalling attack against civilians in Dnipro; strengthening action against the Putin regime and military support; and the establishment of a tribunal on the crime of aggression against Ukraine. The High Representative of the EU for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy, Josep Borrell, spoke on the EU response to the protests and executions in Iran, and on strengthening the EU Latin America partnership. During question time, Members posed questions to Commissioner Janusz Wojciechowski on EU action to tackle food price inflation in Europe. Finally, Parliament elected Marc Angel (S&D, Luxembourg) to the post of Vice President of the European Parliament.

Povzetek 'The European Union is not a hitch in history ... We are not a hitch in history.' Those were the words of the late David Maria Sassoli during his acceptance speech in July 2019 after being elected as president of the European Parliament. He was the seventh Italian to hold that office, and the second since the first direct elections to the Parliament in 1979. During his early life, Sassoli was an active member of numerous associations including the Scouts, and was deeply convinced that Catholicism and secular society could work together to build a better society. A journalist by profession, Sassoli's entry into politics coincided with his candidacy in the 2009 European elections, as leader in the Central Italy constituency. Sassoli served for three consecutive mandates in the European Parliament. On 1 July 2014, he was elected vice-president with responsibility for Mediterranean policy, budget and buildings. He was reconfirmed as vice-president in January 2017. Sassoli's commitment to the European project and ceaseless defence of democratic values shone on several occasions during his terms of office in the Parliament. He stood up repeatedly in defence of both EU citizens and non-EU citizens being denied human rights by authoritarian regimes. He worked to make citizens' voices heard, particularly those of the weakest. He fought to strengthen the EU's social dimension and denounced Europe's reluctance to assume its political duties towards developing countries on vaccines. Sassoli invited his fellow European citizens to welcome those fleeing war and hunger, who look at Europe as a land of hope. In 2020, when Europe faced the most severe wave of COVID-19, Sassoli fought for Parliament to remain active during the pandemic's most critical months. David Maria Sassoli passed away in office on 11 January 2022, aged 65. His death in January 2022 spurred emotional reactions from his colleagues in the European Parliament, EU political leaders and civil society, with many EU leaders paying their respects and praising his vision of Europe. The European Parliament will pay tribute to Sassoli in January 2023, one year after his death.

Povzetek The Kingdom of Sweden is a constitutional monarchy and parliamentary democracy with a Head of State - the monarch - and a Head of Government - the Prime Minister (Statsminister). The monarch, currently King Carl XVI Gustaf, in office since September 1973, primarily has ceremonial duties. The Prime Minister is nominated by the Speaker (Talman) of the Parliament (Riksdag), and is confirmed by parliament if less than half of its members vote against the proposal. The current Prime Minister is Ulf Kristersson, from the EPP-affiliated Moderate Party (Samlingspartiet Moderaterna) (M), which is the third biggest party in the Parliament. He took office on 17 October 2022, following the Parliamentary elections held on Sunday 11 September, with 176 members of Parliament voting in favour and 173 against. He was preceded by Magdalena Andersson from the Social Democratic Party (2021-2022). The Prime Minister leads the Government, the executive body of the country. The Prime Minister personally appoints the members of government, once he or she has been approved by Parliament. The current Swedish government is a centre-right minority coalition of three parties: the Moderate Party, the Christian Democrats and the Liberal Party. It also relies on the Sweden Democrats, which is the second biggest party in Parliament. The collaboration between the government and the Sweden Democrats is formally set out in the 'Tidö' agreement, which covers six major 'collaborative projects' (growth and household finances, crime, migration and integration, climate and energy, health and medical care, and schools). In addition to the collaborative projects, the parties will cooperate on a number of other issues, such as culture and democracy. The unicameral Parliament (Riksdag) has 349 members who are elected every four years. There are currently eight parties in the Parliament: * Socialdemokraterna (S) - The Social Democratic Party (S&D): 107 MPs * Sverigedemokraterna (SD) - The Sweden Democrats (ECR): 73 MPs * Moderaterna (M) - The Moderate Party (EPP): 68 MPs * Vänsterpartiet (V) - The Left Party (The Left): 24 MPs * Centerpartiet (C) - The Centre Party (Renew): 24 MPs * Kristdemokraterna (KD) - The Christian Democrats (EPP): 19 MPs * Miljöpartiet (MP) - The Green Party (Greens/EFA): 18 MPs * Liberalerna (L) - The Liberal Party (Renew): 16 MPs Sweden will hold the Presidency of the Council of the EU for the third time during the first half of 2023. The first Swedish Presidency was held during the first half of 2001, and the second took place during the second half of 2009, coinciding with the final months of the ratification process and the entry into force of the Lisbon Treaty. The programme of the Trio, formed together with France and Czechia, has as thematic priorities to protect citizens and freedoms; to promote a new growth and investment model for Europe; to build a climate-neutral, green, fair and social Europe; and to promote Europe's interests and values in the world. Sweden is also in the late stages of negotiating its entry into NATO alongside Finland.

Povzetek Charles Michel's (first) term as European Council President comes to an end on 30 May 2022. In advance of his potential re-election by EU Heads of State or Government to that function, this paper looks at his activities during the course of his 30-month mandate to date, with a special focus on the institutional and inter-institutional dimension of his role. In practice, the coronavirus pandemic has dictated the agenda of the European Council from almost the beginning of Mr Michel's time in office. The resulting need to concentrate on 'crisis management' provided him, as it had his predecessors, with the opportunity to show leadership, applying a careful balance between the role of facilitator and that of agenda-setter. Despite the challenging circumstances he has faced, Mr Michel has managed to make his mark on the European Council's agenda, notably on external relations, championing the concept of 'strategic autonomy'. He demonstrated strong activism both prior to and after the outbreak of the war in Ukraine, playing an important role in European Union mobilisation to support the country. He has also adjusted the European Council's working methods, in particular with the use of video-conferences of small groups of EU leaders to better prepare full European Council meetings. Cooperation between the European Council President and the European Parliament has increased in comparison to previous years, particularly regarding activities not required of the President by the Treaties. Mr Michel has also innovated in communications, notably through a newsletter aimed at EU citizens.

Povzetek On 1 December 2019, Charles Michel, previously prime minister of Belgium, became the third President of the European Council. He began his term in dynamic mode, aiming to make his mark in foreign affairs and develop the EU's interinstitutional relations. While pursuing his predecessors' efforts to secure unity between EU leaders, Michel has applied his own style, visible notably in his discourse, social media presence and transparency efforts. An analysis of the President's Twitter activities shows his strong focus on EU-Africa relations, climate and, most recently, COVID-19.

Povzetek The European Central Bank will shortly see a 'change of the guard' at a time of stagnating economic growth and fears of recession sparked partly by global trade conflicts. Current ECB President, Mario Draghi's eight-year term in office ends on 1 November, and he is to be replaced by Christine Lagarde, former head of the International Monetary Fund and previously Minister of Finance in France. Some analysts say that the ECB's recent decisions aimed at propping up faltering growth in the euro area will limit Lagarde's room for manoeuvre as regards a possible change in policy direction. On 12 September, the ECB's Governing Council cut interest rates deeper into negative territory and decided to extend its bond purchases, without giving any indicative end for the programme. This note offers links to a series of some recent commentaries and reports from major international think tanks and research institutes on the ECB and related issues.
